WAGES AND HOURS OF LABOUR IN CANADA

1929, 1935 and 1936*

THE present bulletin, the twentieth in the series on Wages and Hours of Labour, contains data for the years 1929, 1935 and 1936, but the tables on building, printing, metal trades and electric railways give figures for 1920, 1926, and 1930 to 1936, while the table on steam railways is for the years 1920 to 1936 inclusive. In the appendices information is given as to minimum wage rates and maximum hours of labour under provincial legislation, also as to the federal government fair wage policy, wages in agriculture in 1935 and certain previous years, average earnings of steam railway employees in recent years with numbers employed in 1935, average earnings of coal miners with numbers employed and days worked from 1921 to 1935 and also average earnings of employees in merchandising and service establishments in 1935.

The table of index numbers of rates of wages contains figures showing changes in a number of occupational groups, from 1901 to 1936, and for certain other groups from 1911 to 1936, the base year being 1913. Index numbers for other groups have not been calculated as figures back to 1913 have not been compiled and published.

Changes in Wages

The recovery in wages, which first appeared in logging and sawmilling and in common factory labour in 1934 and extended to all groups in 1935, continued during 1936, and the increases were again greatest in logging and sawmilling, nine per cent, but were appreciable in factory work, over two per cent, and on street railways one per cent, while in building, metal and printing trades the average increases were less. In coal mining and on steam railways wage rates were unchanged. In building trades the average increase was lessened by lower wage scales being agreed upon in certain

*The first report in this series was issued as a supplement to the LABOUR GAZETTE for March, 1921, and contained figures as to wages and hours of labour for certain trades in various cities in Canada from 1901 to 1920, with index numbers by groups based on wages in 1913 as 100. It also contained samples of wage rates for common labour in factories, miscellaneous factory trades in a small number of industries, and wages in lumbering from 1911 to 1920, with index numbers. Subsequent reports, in most cases issued as supplements to the LABOUR GAZETTE for January each year, brought these figures down to date with extensions from time to time to include additional industries and classes of labour.

The present report includes figures as to wages and hours in the manufacturing of silk yarns and fabrics, crude forged and rolled steel products, tobacco, cigarettes and cigars, industries not hitherto covered.

Certain of these reports, however, contained special features. Report No. 5 (1923) dealt with Hours of Labour in Canada and Other Countries. Report No. 3 (January, 1922) included an appendix with statistics of wages and hours in coal mining in Canada from 1900 to 1921 with index numbers for the three principal districts. Report No. 7 (January, 1925) included an appendix with figures for agriculture from 1914 to 1923. Report No. 11 (January, 1928) contained an appendix on wages of employees of steam railways, considerably increasing the information for the years since 1917 with a more extensive record from 1901 to 1927 and also a new series of index numbers. Each report from No. 7 (January, 1925), to No. 14 (January, 1931), contained data not only for the previous year but back to 1920, except that figures for 1922, 1923 and 1924, the years of least change, were omitted from some of the tables owing to lack of space. Report No. 15, issued in January, 1932, contained data for the years 1926, 1930 and 1931, with figures for 1920 also in some cases. Report No. 16, issued in January, 1933, afforded figures for 1930, 1931 and 1932 with figures for 1920 and 1926 also in some tables. Report No. 17, issued in January, 1934, contained data for 1929, 1932 and 1933 with figures for 1920, 1926 and 1930 to 1933 in some tables. For coal mining and steam railways wages for the years 1920 to 1933 were given. Report No. 18 issued in January, 1935, contained data for 1929, 1933 and 1934, with figures for 1920, 1926, and 1930 to 1934 in some tables. For steam railways wages for the years 1920 to 1934 were given. In this report, Table IX on common labour in factories was enlarged to include a greater number of cities and more samples for each, especially in the large cities. Report No. 19, issued in January, 1936, contained data for 1929, 1934 and 1935 and for some of the earlier years in some tables.

In Report No. 15 (January, 1932) the number of cities for which data were given in Table I as to building trades and electric railways was increased to approximately forty, and in the case of printing trades to fifteen, and these cities have since been covered in subsequent reports. Previously this table covered only thirteen cities, except that data for building trades in Windsor, Ont., were included, beginning with the report for 1928. Sheet metal workers employed in building and construction have been included with building trades since 1927, while sheet metal workers in factories have been included in the table on manufacturing industries. The section of the table on metal trades previously given was omitted from Reports Nos. 15 and 16 for 1931 and 1932 but figures for these trades appeared in the tables of sample rates of wages and hours in the sections of Table X on foundries and machine shops and other metal manufacturing industries. This section of Table No. I was, however, included in Report No. 17 with figures for 1920, 1926 and 1930 to 1933 and has been continued in subsequent reports. As in previous reports figures on wages for the metal trades in mines and on railways appear in the tables on those industries.

The appendix on wage rates under provincial minimum wage legislation, included in recent years beginning with Report No. 12, issued in January, 1929, was enlarged in Reports No. 18 and 19 to include also data as to wage rates in certain collective labour agreements enforceable under legislation in several of the provinces. The present report includes also a section on maximum hours of labour under provincial legislation, trades and localities where there was little employment in the past few years. In manufacturing industries the greatest increases appeared in automobile plants, over eight per cent, but increases averaged four to five per cent in the manufacture of shirts, flour, meat products, furniture, automobile parts and accessories and fur goods. After September, the month for which most of the figures were obtained, wage increases were announced in a number of establishments in various industries, indicating that the upward movement in wages was being considerably accelerated.

For previous years it will be seen from the table of index numbers that by 1920 wages had reached levels almost one hundred per cent higher than in 1913, in some groups the increase being over one hundred per cent while for building and printing trades the increases were appreciably less, being only about eighty per cent. After 1920 all groups showed some decreases, although printing trades and coal mining reached the peak in 1921 instead of 1920, declining somewhat thereafter. The decreases in coal mining in 1925 were comparatively steep and tended to reduce the average for the six groups averaged for the period back to 1901. From 1925 to 1930 the movement was upward in each group.

In 1930 the index numbers for most of the groups were slightly higher but that for lumbering declined slightly. In 1931 all groups were downward except printing trades and coal mining. In 1932 and 1933 all groups were down, the greatest decreases being in lumbering and building trades

(a) Seven trades from 1901 to 1920, eight from 1921 to 1926, nine for 1927 to 1936, 13 cities to 1927, 14 cities to 1930, thereafter 31 to 42 cities.

(b) Five trades from 1901 to 1926, four for 1927 to 1936.

(c) Two trades from 1901 to 1920, four for 1921 and 1922, six from 1923 to 1936.

(d) Two classes from 1901 to 1920, five classes 1921 to 1936.

(e) Twenty-three classes.

(f) Four classes 1901 to 1920, twelve classes 1921 to 1936.

(g) The number of samples (and industries) increased from time to time since 1920; machine operators, helpers, etc. also included.

In 1934 lumbering showed substantial increases, factory labour also advanced appreciably and coal mining slightly while the other groups were lower.

In 1935 all groups were appreciably upward.

Building Trades

In the building trades up to 1919 there were smaller increases than in any of the other groups, but in 1920 there were considerable increases. In 1921 decreases of 10 cents per hour were general and in 1922 decreases of 5 cents per hour were numerous. In 1923, 1924 and 1925, while there were upward movements in the average, it was due to increases in particular trades and in certain cities, and not to a general upward movement for most of the trades and localities. From 1926 to 1930, the upward movement was somewhat more general. During 1931 there were numerous decreases, in some localities the reduction being general while in others it was confined to certain trades. During 1932 and 1933 the decreases were general, averaging about ten per cent, while in 1934 there were decreases in some trades in certain cities but no general downward tendency appeared. In some cases there were increases so that the average decrease was about three per cent. In 1935, increases occurred chiefly in Quebec and Ontario, some of them due to agreements which established minimum wages under provincial legislation as outlined in Appendix E. In 1936 the upward movement continued with, however, decreases in certain trades in a few localities.

Metal Trades

In the metal trades the increase in wage rates from 1915 to 1918 was greater than in most of the other groups, there being a good demand for labour in the manufacture of munitions. During the industrial activity in 1919 and 1920 further increases were made, but in 1921 and 1922 considerable decreases occurred. In 1923 and 1924 some recovery was experienced, in 1925 there was practically no change, from 1926 to 1930 there were some slight changes upward, but during 1931 the changes were downward, while during 1932 and 1933 the decreases averaged five per cent and three per cent respectively. In 1934 there were comparatively few decreases, with some increases, so that the average was down less than one per cent. In 1935 wages recovered, being slightly higher than in 1934, and this slight recovery continued in 1936.

Printing Trades

In the printing trades up to 1920 increases were about the same as in the building trades, but in 1921 when many of the three or five-year agreements between employers and the unions expired, rates were advanced and hours were reduced in many cases. Increases appeared each year thereafter down to 1931. During 1932 decreases of ten per cent were general in the western provinces and were made in some cities in the east. In 1933 the decreases were general, averaging five per cent. In 1934, while there were further decreases, there were some increases, the average being down less than one per cent. In 1935 and 1936 there were a few increases.

Electric Railways

In electric railway service, rates had almost doubled by 1920, but declined slightly in 1921 and 1922, recovering somewhat in 1923 and very gradually each year thereafter until 1931 after which reductions occurred each year.

Since 1930, on many of these railways, with reduced traffic, operating costs were lowered to some extent by reducing hours per day, and therefore daily wages, instead of reducing hourly rates. In 1934 very few changes in wages were made so that the index number was practically unchanged. In 1935 and 1936 there were a few increases.

Steam Railways

In steam railway employment, wage increases were considerable in 1918, 1919 and 1920, but in 1921, decreases averaging about twelve per cent for all classes were made and in 1922 decreases for shop crafts, maintenance of way employees and for freight handlers, clerks, etc., were made, averaging about ten per cent. In 1926, at the end of the year, wages of conductors, trainmen, brakemen, baggagemen, and yardmen were advanced about 6 per cent, that is by half the amount of the reduction in 1921, and during 1927 similar increases were made in rates for other classes. In 1929, increases were secured by shop and maintenance of way employees and by certain classes of train crews on some lines. In 1931, while practically all classes were to a great extent on short time, changes in rates were not made until the end of the year when a ten per cent deduction from each employee's pay was made for train, engine and telegraph service employees from December first. In the early months of 1932 the same deduction was applied to other classes.

In 1933, earnings of employees in engine, train and telegraph services were subjected to a deduction of twenty per cent from May to October, inclusive, and fifteen per cent thereafter. The deduction for most of the other classes was increased to fifteen per cent in December.

Toward the end of 1934 amendments to the agreements between the railway companies and the employees provided that the general deduction of fifteen per cent would be changed to one of twelve per cent on January, 1935, and to ten per cent on May 1, 1935.

Coal Mining

In coal mining the index number reached its peak in 1921, increases having been made in the closing weeks of 1920. In 1922 decreases were made in Nova Scotia and Vancouver Island and in 1923 and 1924 slight decreases occurred in the latter. A substantial decrease occurred in Alberta and southeastern British Columbia in 1924. In 1925 decreases occurred in the three principal districts, being especially steep in Alberta and southeastern British Columbia. Slight increases, however, were provided for a number of classes in some of the mines in Alberta toward the end of the year. In 1926, reductions were effected in Nova Scotia but wages in the other fields were practically unchanged. Slight increases were made in some mines in Alberta in 1928. In Nova Scotia in February, 1930, rates for labourers were changed by increases of 5 cents to 15 cents per day and certain other data classes were slightly increased. During 1931 rates of wages were steady but the industry suffered greatly from short time, that is, collieries were operated less than six days per week to a great extent. In 1932 in Nova Scotia rates were reduced ten per cent in March, except that a minimum of $3.25 per day was provided for in the principal mines. In the other districts rates were reduced only in a few of the smaller mines. In 1933, wages in the Drumheller district in Alberta were reduced more than ten per cent. In Nova Scotia, rates were unchanged in the principal mines but there were reductions of about fifteen per cent in certain mines of medium size. In 1934 partial restorations of these reductions were made in some Nova Scotia mines, while decreases occurred in New Brunswick.

The index number for 1901 to 1935 does not include New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and the Princeton district in British Columbia. The inclusion of these figures for 1934, when weighted according to numbers of miners employed, made no change in the result. In 1935, increases of about five per cent were made in Nova Scotia and in Alberta in the Drumheller and Edmonton districts. In 1936 wage scales were practically unchanged.

Factory Labour

Factory labour had shown almost the greatest percentage increases up to 1920, both for common labour and for the various trades, but steep decreases appeared from 1921 to 1923 after which the trend was upward until 1931 when a considerable number of decreases occurred. In 1932 decreases in rates were numerous and steep in some cases. There was, however, a pronounced tendency to reduce hours per week or per day or both, frequently on a short time basis, with relatively small reductions in hourly rates. In some cases, where hours per day were reduced more than daily wages, the hourly rate became higher. In 1933, rates were again generally downward but less steeply. In 1934 there were numerous increases in nearly all of the manufacturing industries but comparatively few decreases so that the index number rose by nearly three per cent. In 1935 the upward movement continued. In Ontario and Quebec this was due to some extent to agreements establishing minimum rates in various localities and industries under provincial legislation. These are outlined in Appendix E. In 1936 wages were increased in many establishments in all manufacturing industries.

Logging and Sawmilling

In logging and sawmilling steep increases in wages appeared up to 1920, followed by particularly steep decreases in 1921, after which substantial increases occurred in 1923 and 1924, with a decrease in 1925 and slight increases each year thereafter until 1930 when more decreases than increases appeared. During 1931 decreases were general, and again in 1932, wage reductions of twenty per cent being quite common. In 1933, wages were still downward but there was a pronounced upward trend toward the end of the year for the ensuing season. In 1934, substantial increases in wages were general both in logging and in sawmills so that the index number rose by about twenty per cent. In 1935 the increases averaged five per cent. In 1936 wages were again upward, the increases averaging nearly nine per cent.

Nature and Scope of Report

The main object of these reports is to show the changes in wages rates and in hours of labour during the periods covered. The figures given in each report afford a continuous record for the years included, the data being from the same sources as far as is possible. Whenever a new source of information becomes available, the figures for previous years are secured, if possible, and the record is revised accordingly.

Information is compiled from reports secured annually* from representative employers and trade unions, and also from union

* The information is obtained in June for building trades, civic employees, trucking and cartage, longshoremen, logging and sawmilling, pulp and paper mills, and for automobile manufacturing while for other trades and industries the information is secured chiefly in September. For the classes covered in June, later information is frequently received and used.

agreements. Figures are secured from practically all the large establishments in the various industries and from a representative number of the smaller establishments. These reports are supplemented by figures obtained by officers of the Department and by resident correspondents of the LABOUR GAZETTE in the principal industrial centres.

Wages in manufacturing are shown by samples numbered one, two, etc., each sample showing the predominant rate in a certain establishment; in some cases, for large establishments two or three samples are given. In the present report additional samples of rates above or below the predominant rates have been included where an appreciable number of workers were receiving such rates; where it appears to be preferable a range of predominant rates is used. For common labour in factories, sample rates are given by localities for the principal manufacturing centres.

For the following industries wages are given in the form of samples as in the case of factory labour: grain elevators, electric current production and transmission, telephones, laundries, logging and sawmilling, and metal mining. The locality in each case is not given as it would in many instances make possible the identification of the particular establishment.

Figures for particular localities are given for building, metal, and printing trades, electric railways and civic employees in Tables I and II, and for trucking and cartage, and longshoremen in Table III, also for common labour in factories in Table IX.

The statistics as to building trades show the prevailing rates of wages and hours of labour for nine classes of labour for the years 1920, 1926, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935, and 1936, for the building season beginning in the spring of each year. During the year 1931, however, changes occurred later in the season more extensively than is usual, and the rates in effect at the end of the year were therefore obtained and included. For 1933 a similar survey was made again toward the end of the year in several cities. As in all previous years, changes in rates reported down to the end of the year, from the sources mentioned above, are included. In Quebec, Ontario and Alberta, these include new agreement rates made obligatory on all employers affected under provincial legislation as to collective agreements and industrial standards; in British Columbia they include minimum rates for the construction industry under the Male Minimum Wage Act; and in Manitoba under the Fair Wages Act. Such rates of wages and hours of labour are given in Appendix E.

On steam railways, wages of employees on the regular staffs are fixed according to agreements between the several railways and the employees, members of the organizations of railway employees, the principal railways having the same rates for nearly all the principal classes. The figures published are taken from these agreements.

In coal mining, the wages in the principal districts are arranged by agreements between the coal mining operators and the employees, in most cases represented by unions and in others by committees of employees. The figures published from 1920 to 1933 were taken from such agreements. The figures for average earnings of contract miners, however, were received from representative employers in each district. In some of the mines in these districts the wages of unorganized employees are somewhat lower than the rates in such agreements. For Report No. 18, and subsequent reports, statements as to wage rates and hours of labour have been requested from the operators of all the larger mines throughout Canada and the figures so secured have been compiled by provinces or districts. The resulting figures include those for many mines not operated under agreements as to wages and working conditions, and cover the mines in New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and the interior of British Columbia for which figures were not previously published.

In metal mining the rates of wages and hours of labour are shown as samples for mines in the various parts of Canada, secured from representative employers.

In logging, Table VII, the data each year is for the season beginning in the autumn and ending in the spring in Eastern Canada.

Data as to Hours

In earlier reports the hours of labour shown throughout were the standard or regular hours per week, per day, etc., and did not indicate the hours actually worked either overtime or on short time. During 1931 a number of establishments in many of the manufacturing industries reported operations on a short time basis. In the report covering that year, No. 15, wages for such establishments were given on an hourly basis or brought to a basis of full time earnings per week, per day, etc., the resulting figures as to wage rates being therefore on the same basis with those for 1926 and 1930 in the tables.

In Report No. 16, with figures for 1930, 1931 and 1932, in the tables on manufacturing industries, the hours of labour for these years were those reported by employers, whether short time or regular hours, and the wage rates were brought to an hourly basis, except in certain industries, clothing, bread, cake, biscuit, candy, brewing and paper box making for which regular hours were reported chiefly. The same procedure has been followed in subsequent reports except that wages for boot and shoe manufacturing are given on a weekly basis with the hours shown as reported. In this industry, as in some instances in clothing manufacturing, the hours actually worked by individual piece workers are usually not reported and the hours shown are those on which the department or factory is operated.

Index Numbers of Wage Rates

In Report No. 1 tables of index numbers were given in order to show the general trend of the movement in rates of wages. The first set of index numbers was for the rates of wages from 1901 to 1920 in the thirteen selected cities. For each series of rates, that is, for each trade or occupation in each locality, index numbers were calculated both from the hourly rates and from the weekly rates, and these index numbers were averaged for all localities, by groups, thus indicating the relative changes in weekly rates and in hourly rates. The year 1913 was taken as the base period, that is the rate for 1913 in each case was taken as 100, so that the index numbers showed the percentage changes in rates from time to time prior to and since that date. An average was also made for all of the series in these tables, in order to indicate the general trend in wages in such trades as a whole. In making the average index numbers for the six groups the simple arithmetical averages were taken, no allowance being made for the importance of each trade or group by using a system of weighting. In Report No. 3 this table of index numbers for the thirteen cities was brought down to September, 1921.

In subsequent reports the index numbers of hourly rates from 1901 to 1921 have been reproduced, with figures since 1921 calculated by ascertaining the average increase or decrease per cent in the figures for each group each year from the figures for the preceding year and adjusting the group index number accordingly. The index numbers therefore show approximately the movement of wage rates in each group for the past year as compared with the movement in previous years and show current levels as compared with levels in 1913. In Report No. 3 index numbers of daily wages in coal mining were given, calculated in the same manner as the index numbers in Report No. 1. The index number for the coal mining group since 1921 has been calculated in the same manner as those for the other groups. The index numbers for metal trades, previously calculated from Section b in Table I, omitted for 1931 and 1932, were calculated from the average percentage changes in the samples for such trades in Table X for those years.

A table of index numbers of wages for factory trades, for common labour in factories, and for lumbering, logging and sawmilling, calculated from the sample rates published was also given for the period 1911 to 1920 in Report No. 1. These figures have been brought down to 1936 in the same manner as the other index numbers since 1921 were calculated.

The classes of labour for which rates were used for the calculation of index numbers for the period 1901 to 1936 are, in the main, skilled trades; and practically all of these classes, including the unskilled, are organized to a great extent in trade and labour unions. The index numbers for these six groups therefore show the trend of wage rates in a number of organized occupations whose members, except coal miners and steam railway employees, work chiefly in cities. They do not, however, indicate the changes in wages outside of industrial centres.

The index numbers calculated from sample rates of wages in factories show the trend of wages for labour in manufacturing industries in which there are many establishments in small centres as well as in cities. The figures for lumbering cover sawmilling in both large and small centres and logging in the principal districts.

For the present report, in addition to the simple average for the six groups with figures from 1901 to 1936, weighted averages have been calculated for these six groups and also for all nine groups in those years for which figures are available. The index number for each group is weighted by the average number of wage-earners in the industry represented, as shown by the decennial or the annual industrial census of 1921 and of 1931, the average of the figures for these two dates being taken in each case.

The weights were as follows (in thousands): building trades 143; metal trades 131; printing trades 25; electric railways 18; steam railways 161; coal mining 28; common factory labour 110; miscellaneous factory trades 363; logging and sawmilling 77.

It will be observed that this weighting has most effect in modifying the effect on the general averages of the figures for coal mining and lumbering in which from time to time since 1920 the changes have been quite different from those in the other groups.

Weighting, within groups, although desirable, has not been done. In such groups by occupations or industries weighting makes comparatively little difference as rates of wages for the various classes of labour tend to rise and fall to the same extent even in different localities. In the three groups, Common Factory Labour, Miscellaneous Factory Trades, and Logging and Sawmilling, the index numbers, being calculated from samples, the averages are automatically weighted by the number of samples which vary according to the number of workers in the various occupations and industries.

*Rate and hours approved under Industrial Standards Act, Nova Scotia, 1936.

 Beginning in 1934 agreements approved by Order in Council under the Collective Labour Agreements Extension Act, Quebec, 1934, established minimum rates of wages for various trades in cities, towns and other defined jurisdictional territory throughout the province. In 1935 and 1936 the minimum rate in each range is that approved under the Act. For regulations under the Quebec Act, 1933, respecting the Limiting of Working Hours, see Appendix E.

* The range of hours shown are full-time weekly hours; from 1931 to 1935 actual shop hours in many establishments were on a short time basis as low as 24 hours per week; a 40 hour week has been reported as standard in many cases. Data for metal trades on steam railways and in mines appear in tables for those industries.

*Differentials on certain lines or divisions above these rates. Nearly all classes are on the basic 8-hour day with time and one-half for overtime, but in some cases some other consideration has been arranged.

†Machinists; boilermakers; blacksmiths; plumbers, etc.; sheet metal workers; cabinet makers; carpenters, coach, locomotive and bench; welders, etc.

‡Freight car carpenters; freight car painters; car inspectors, car repairers, etc.

§Since 1918 employees are allowed one minute extra, for checking in and out, for each hour actually worked, thereby increasing earnings approximately one cent per hour.

(a) On Western lines Port Arthur and west, until 1929 in addition to these rates boilermakers' helpers received 5½ cents; blacksmiths' helpers, 4 cents, and other helpers 3 cents; since May 1, 1929, the differentials on western lines were boilermakers' helpers 4 cents, other helpers 2 cents.

(b) Deductions from each employee's earnings on basic rates effective as follows. Train, engine and telegraph service, 10 per cent Dec. 1, 1931; 20 per cent May 1, 1933; 15 per cent Nov. 1, 1933; Maintenance of way and bridge and building, 10 per cent May 1, 1932; 15 per cent Dec. 1, 1933; Locomotive and car shops, 10 per cent April 1, 1932; 15 per cent Dec. 1, 1933, with certain exceptions. (LABOUR GAZETTE, December, 1933, page 1212.) Deduction amended for all classes effective as follows: Jan. 1, 1935, 12 per cent; May 1, 1935, 10 per cent. (LABOUR GAZETTE, November, 1934, p. 991; December, 1934, p. 1085.)

* The figures given for contract miners are the average earnings at piece rates and for some mines the figures include helpers and loaders on piece work; the figures given for machine and hand miners are rates per day.

† No figures for Chinese employees included.

‡ Higher rates are paid in two or three mines for some of these classes; also in the large mines for certain positions. In 1935 and 1936 nearly all surface employers were put on the eight hour day.

APPENDIX D

Weekly Earnings of Employees in Merchandising and Service Establishments in Canada, 1935.

A report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics entitled "Weekly Earnings of Employees in Merchandising and Service Establishments in Canada, 1935," 99 pp., afforded data as to the average weekly earnings of employees with numbers employed for four classes of establishments: independent retail stores, chain stores, wholesale trade, and motion picture theatres. The figures as to independent retail stores were chiefly from those which had an annual business of 20,000 or more in 1930 as shown in the census of 1931. This section included department stores, restaurants, gasoline filling stations, garages, as well as retail businesses of various kinds. The information on chain stores was secured from all companies operating four or more units in the same or similar lines of trade and included earnings of store managers, clerks, cashiers, delivery and any other store employees but not for head office staff, warehouse and transportation employees. For the section on wholesale trade information was secured from all the larger wholesale dealers and from a number of sales offices and distribution branches maintained by manufacturers. For motion picture theatres, reports were secured from all operators of such establishments in Canada.

In addition to the data as to the numbers of employees and average weekly earnings the report contained tables showing the percentages of employees in each kind of business by provinces whose weekly earnings fell within specified ranges: under $6, $6 to $6.99; etc. Part time employees were included in this analysis but not in the other tables. Earnings by quartile groups were also given.

The accompanying table shows the average weekly earnings and numbers of employees, male and female by kinds of business and by provinces. The figures as to each kind of business by provinces are not included.

APPENDIX E

WAGES AND HOURS OF LABOUR UNDER PROVINCIAL LEGISLATION AND ON FEDERAL GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS IN CANADA

Legislation providing for the regulation of wages and hours of labour has been enacted by various provinces in Canada with respect to: minimum wage rates for females established by government boards in all provinces except Prince Edward Island which is not extensively industrial; minimum wage rates for males established by government boards in British Columbia, Manitoba and Alberta, or under special regulations for certain industries such as forest operations in Quebec and New Brunswick; the extension by Order in Council of the rates of wages and hours of labour specified in a collective labour agreement between representative employers and workers to all engaged in the industry in the same district in Quebec, Ontario, Alberta and Nova Scotia; the limitation of hours of work in industries generally or in particular industries or trades by Order in Council or provincial boards.

Until 1935, federal regulation of wages and hours of labour applied only to conditions on federal government contracts. In 1935 three statutes to implement conventions of the Industrial Labour Conference were passed: the Limitation of Hours of Work Act, Minimum Wages Act and Weekly Rest in Industrial Undertakings Act. After reference to the Supreme Court of Canada and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council these Acts were declared invalid in January, 1937.

Minimum Wage Rates on Federal Government Contracts

In accordance with a Resolution of the House of Commons in 1900, the Fair Wages Policy of the Federal Government has provided for the observance of rates of wages generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district where the work was performed or, in the absence of current rates, for fair and reasonable rates. This policy applied to building and construction work and to the manufacture of government supplies.

In 1922 the application of this policy by the various departments of the government was standardized under an Order in Council, setting forth the labour conditions to be inserted in contracts for building and construction and for the manufacture and supply of fittings for public buildings, harness, saddlery, clothing and other outfit for the military and naval forces, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, letter carriers, and other Government officers and employees; mail bags, letter boxes, and other postal stores.

In 1930, the Fair Wage and Eight Hour Day Act was passed, applicable to all contracts for construction, remodelling, repair or demolition of any Federal work. This statute provides for the observance of current rates of wages and requires also that wages shall in all cases be such as are fair and reasonable and that the working hours are not to exceed eight a day.

On December 31, 1934, the labour conditions previously applicable to contracts for the manufacture of various classes of Government supplies as listed above, were rescinded and new conditions substituted therefor. (LABOUR GAZETTE, January, 1935, page 24.)

The requirement for the payment of wages not less than current rates or fair and reasonable rates, if there are no current rates, is retained, but it is also provided that males and females under 18 years of age will be entitled to rates of wages not less than those provided for women and girls in the minimum wage scales of the respective provinces. In certain of the Maritime Provinces where no minimum wage legislation is in effect, the contractors are required to pay the males and females under 18 years of age wages not less than those provided for women and girls under the Minimum Wage Act of the Province of Nova Scotia.

It is also provided that in no event shall the wage rate for male workers 18 years of age and over be less than 30 cents per hour, and for female workers, 18 years of age and over, 20 cents per hour, but in any cases where the Provincial Minimum Wage laws require the payment of higher wages than those set out above, such higher rates shall apply in the execution of Federal contract work. For instance for a 50 hour week on a Federal Government contract a male 18 years of age and over, whether experienced or inexperienced, must be paid not less than $15 and a female $10 even if the provincial minimum scale may provide $6, $7, $8, etc., but if the provincial minimum scale is in excess of $15 in the case of male and $10 in the case of female workers then the provincial scale must prevail.

The Fair Wages and Hours of Labour Act, 1935

During the 1935 session of Parliament the Fair Wages and Hours of Labour Act, 1935, was passed, to come into effect on May 1, 1936, repealing the Fair Wages and Eight Hour Day Act, 1930. The new statute provides for the forty-four hour week and for other labour conditions in work under federal government contracts for building and construction and on works towards which federal aid is granted by way of subsidy, loan, etc., as before, but extends the list of such works to include those carried out by any provincial and municipal authority if financial aid is given by the federal government "unless the grant or payment is by statutory authority or by agreement with the Government of Canada excepted." It is also provided that regulations may be made to require the furnishing of any necessary information to ensure the enforcement of the statute. Any contract may be exempted from the Act by Order in Council before being entered into.

Minimum Wages for Female Employees

Between 1918 and 1930 statutes providing for the establishment of minimum wage rates for females by boards or commissions had been passed in all of the provinces except Prince Edward Island, which is not to a great extent industrial, the dates being as follows: British Columbia and Manitoba, 1918; Quebec and Saskatchewan, 1919; Nova Scotia, Ontario and Alberta, 1920; New Brunswick, 1930. In Quebec the Act was not put into force or orders issued until 1926, in Nova Scotia not until 1930. The New Brunswick statute comes into force on proclamation and has not yet been proclaimed.

The following tables give data as to minimum rates of wages for females under orders of the various provincial boards in effect at the end of 1936. The figures as to hours are those for which the minimum rates are payable under such orders, subject to certain modifications, or are the maximum hours under the minimum wage or other legislation, as explained in footnotes.

The more important of the rules for the application of the rates under the orders have been given in footnotes. For complete information it is necessary to refer to the orders as issued by the various provincial boards. These have been given in summary form in the LABOUR GAZETTE from time to time as issued. In some provinces these orders include regulations as to employment conditions, sanitary conditions, etc. The boards have power to fix lower rates for inexperienced workers, to issue licences for lower rates of pay for handicapped workers and to meet special conditions in the nature of emergencies.

Minimum Wage Rates for Male Employees

The following statements afford information as to rates of wages and hours of labour established under provincial legislation as to minimum wage standards for male workers.

NEW BRUNSWICK

New Brunswick Forest Operations Act

Under the New Brunswick Forest Operations Act, 1934, the New Brunswick Forest Operations Commission was constituted with powers to make final decisions in labour disputes, subject to the approval of the Minister of Lands and Mines, and to fix minimum wage scales for the industry. The Act does not apply to work on Christmas trees or firewood operations. The Act permits the employment of men inexperienced or physically unfit for a full day's work at wages below the minimum rates established, if agreements approved by the Commission are signed by the employers and the men concerned.

On March 20, 1936, the New Brunswick Forest Operations Commission established, for stream driving, an average rate of wages of $2 per day and board or its equivalent in case of piece work, to be paid by any employer to his employees, provided that the wages paid to cooks shall not be included in determining the average wage. Foremen, book-keepers and clerks are not under the jurisdiction of the Act and their wages are not considered in making the average. For booming and sorting, the minimum rate is 20 cents per hour without board, provided, however, where board is furnished by the employer not more than 50 cents per day may be charged the employee.

Effective September 1, 1936, for cutting, yarding and hauling, the average wage rate paid by any employer to his employees shall be at least $31 per month and board net, and the minimum rate for each employee $27 per month and board net. Wages paid to cooks and the amounts paid to employees for piece work are not to be included in determining the average wage.

Fair Wage Act

In 1936, a Fair Wage Act provided that the Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities, when directed by the Minister of Health and Labour, may establish fair rates of wages and the maximum hours for which such wages shall be paid in any trade, industry or business. No regulation under this legislation had been reported up to the end of the year 1936.

QUEBEC

The Women's Minimum Wage Act, the orders under which are noted above in the table of minimum wage rates for female employees in Quebec, provides that no male employee may be employed at work which, in the opinion of the Minimum Wage Commission, is ordinarily and by custom performed by women, at a less wage than that fixed by an order of the Commission for such work performed by women.

Quebec Forests Operations Commission Act

Under regulations issued by the Commission for the Supervision and Control of Forest Operations under this Act, all timber limit holders and contractors carrying on forest operations on Crown lands were required to pay $30 a month net per month or its equivalent in case of piece work. On November 21, 1936, the Act was repealed but, following the decision made at a conference between the Minister of Lands and Forests and timber limit holders, the Minister informed all timber limit holders, October 23, 1936, that a minimum wage of $40 per month, board and lodging included, must be paid, on penalty of withdrawal of certain concessions in connection with licences for timber limits.

ONTARIO

Under the Minimum Wage Act it is provided that wherever, as determined by the Board, any male employee replaces any female employee at any class of employment for which a minimum wage is established, such male employee must be paid at least such minimum rate. (The minimum rates established for female employees are shown above in the table of minimum wage rates for female employees in Ontario.)

MANITOBA

Prior to 1931, the Minimum Wage Act applied to female workers in cities only. By subsequent amendments made in 1931, 1933, 1934 and 1935, the scope of the Act was extended to include all workers, male and female, in shops, offices, places of amusement, mail order houses and factories in cities. The Minimum Wage Board is empowered to recommend, and the Lieutenant Governor in Council to declare that any Order of the Minimum Wage Board or that the provisions of the Act apply to any or all industries or trades and to any other part of the Province or to the whole Province. It is provided that when regulations are made providing a standard of minimum wages for employees in any class of industry, no person of the age of 18 years or over shall be permitted to work as an employee in the industry at a rate less than 25 cents per hour except in cases where the Board has passed specific regulations providing for a different rate.

Orders of the Minimum Wage Board governing manufacturing and general industries, departmental stores and mail order houses apply to both male and female employees and are shown in the table above under "Minimum Wage Rates for Female Employees." Certain other Orders include separate wage scales for male workers or apply exclusively to male workers and these are noted below:

In the Order governing employment in hotels, restaurants, clubs, victualling houses and refreshment stands throughout the Province: in the area within the Greater Winnipeg Water District and the City of Brandon at any time, and in the City of Portage la Prairie from May to October inclusive, and in any summer resort from June to September inclusive, for male employees 18 years or over, the minimum is $12 per week or 25 cents per hour; for male employees under 18 years, $8 during the first six month period of employment in the occupation, $9 during the second six month period and $10 until such employee reaches the age of 18 years; and for bell boys of any age $8 per week; in the City of Portage la Prairie during the remainder of the year $10 per week or 21 cents per hour for male employees 18 years or over; in any other part of the Province, for male employees of 18 years and over the minimum is $10 per week or 21 cents per hour, except in places with a population of less than 1,000 where the minimum rates may be reduced by 10 per cent from November to April inclusive. Hours are limited to 10 per day, 48 per week, with one day or two half days off in the week, except cooks and male employees over 18 years of age in hotels, for whom time worked over 48 hours must be paid for at the hourly rate specified. In hotels of 100 rooms or more, hours of such employees may not exceed 54 in a week.

In the Order governing employment, in retail stores, of women in all parts of the Province and of boy workers under 18 years in Greater Winnipeg and Brandon, the minimum wage rate for boys is $8 per week during first six months of employment, $9 for the second six months and $10 thereafter, with the exception of messenger boys in drug stores for whom the minimum is $8, and boys working as part time workers at night for whom the minimum is 15 cents per hour. Hours for boys are limited to 9 per day, except Saturdays when the limit is 11½ hours; the weekly maximum hours are 50, with a full day off in seven.

The Order relating to manufacturing and general industries, as noted under "Minimum Wages for Female Employees," governs all workers in these industries throughout the Province. A separate Order is, however, in effect for boys under 18 years in the manufacturing industries in Greater Winnipeg and Brandon, which includes the work of boys in garages and filling stations, providing for the minimum wage rates of $8 per week for the first six months of employment, $9 for the second six months and $10 after one year's employment. Hours are limited to 9 per day, 48 per week. Each boy must receive one-half day off each week.

Another Minimum Wage Board order governs the employment in cities of men performing work generally done by boys. Work generally performed by boys is stated to be delivering telegrams or other messages, hand bills or advertising matter, delivering parcels on foot or on bicycle, office boys, shining shoes, delivering newspapers, setting up bowling alley pins, and other work of a similar nature when ruled as properly coming under this Order by an Inspector of the Bureau of Labour and when employers hold a certificate by said inspector. If such work is performed by a man over 18 years of age he shall be paid at the established rate for adult workers unless such man was in the employers' service in any such occupation on March 1, 1935, or after that date reaches the age of 18 years while in the employers' service in any such occupation, in either of which cases he may be retained by the same employer until an opportunity for promotion occurs and be paid at not less than the established rate for boys for a 48 hour week, that is $8 per week during the first six months of employment, $9 during the second six months and $10 after one year's employment.

This same order provides that duly indentured male apprentices may be paid at the wage rates stipulated in the indenture rather than the wage rates in the Minimum Wage Board order, providing the Board approves such indenture and provided the wage rates are not less than the rates established in the industry for persons under 18 years.

Highway Traffic Act

A regulation made by the Municipal and Public Utility Board constituted under this Act provides that the minimum wage rate for drivers of public service vehicles certificated for passenger transportation be $80 per month, $20 per week, with a 9 hour day and a 6 day week.

Taxicab Act of Manitoba

This act applies only to taxicabs in Greater Winnipeg. A minimum wage of $15 per week is fixed for drivers employed by the week. For a driver employed otherwise than by the week a minimum of $1.40 per day must be paid for each day he is on duty. If on duty for more than four hours in any one day, 35 cents per hour to be paid for each hour in excess of four. Hours on duty are limited to 12 per day and 6 days per week. Provided the minimum wage is not reduced nor the hours increased, the Taxicab Board may vary the above conditions.

Fair Wage Schedule for Public and Certain Private Construction Works in Manitoba

Under the Fair Wage Act and Amendments, the Minister of Public Works (Manitoba) approved a schedule, effective June 15, 1936, establishing the minimum wage rates and the maximum working hours applicable to workers employed on certain public and private works of construction, remodelling, demolition or the repairing of buildings. Such public work is that authorized by the Minister of Public Works for which a contract or contracts have been made between the Minister and an employer. "Private Work" is that for which the contract or contracts exceed $100 and are done within the Greater Winnipeg Water District or any city or town of a population over 2,000 or any other part of the Province to which the provisions of this Act are extended by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, "but shall not include work which is done on property by or under the immediate direction and control of the owner, tenant or occupant thereof if no more than three men are employed in addition to the regular maintenance staff, if any, and if such work be not undertaken with a view to sale or rental of the property and shall not include work which is done by a maintenance man, or men employed by the month".

SASKATCHEWAN

Under the Minimum Wage Act, an Order in Council extended the operation of the Act to male as well as female employees in shops and factories. The minimum wage rates effective thereunder are shown in Table V—Minimum Wage Rates for Female Employees in Saskatchewan.

The Coal Mining Industry Act of Saskatchewan which was proclaimed in force on April 15, 1935, empowers the Lieutenant Governor in Council to regulate hours of labour and minimum wages for the persons employed in the industry.

The Public Service Vehicles Act of Saskatchewan as amended, grants the Highway Traffic Board the power to regulate the wages and hours of drivers of public service and commercial vehicles. No regulations under this Act have been issued.

ALBERTA

The Factories Act, 1926, provides that wherever a minimum wage has been fixed for female workers in any class of employment, no male worker (except indentured apprentices) may be employed in such class of employment at a less wage. (The table on minimum wage rates for women in Alberta is given above.)

A Male Minimum Wage Act was passed by the Alberta legislature at its session February 6 to April 7, 1936, and was amended in the session August 25 to September 1, both the Act and its amendment coming into force by proclamation November 2, 1936. The Act, as amended, which is similar to the Male Minimum Wage Act of British Columbia, applies to all male persons engaged in any industry, trade or business except farm labourers and domestic servants. It is to be administered by the Board of Industrial Relations appointed under the Hours of Work Act, which Board is authorized to issue orders fixing wage rates, hours of labour, overtime pay, etc. No orders had been issued under this Act at the end of the year.

The Public Service Vehicles Act which came into force May 1, 1936, gives to the Highway Traffic Board power to regulate hours of employment and wages of drivers of public service and commercial vehicles.

Under this Act, the Highway Traffic Board issued an order, effective December 15, 1936, by which a driver of a taxicab or livery must be paid a minimum of $15 per week for a week of six days, or if employed otherwise than by the week, he must be paid not less than at the rate of $15 for 6 days.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Under the Female Minimum Wage Act 1934, it is provided that where a minimum wage has been fixed for employees in any industry, business, trade or occupation, no male person over 18 years of age may be employed in such work usually done by female employees at less than the minimum wage fixed for such female employees. Similarly where such a rate has been fixed for female employees under 18 years of age, no male employee under 18 years may be employed at a less wage. The table showing minimum rates for female employees in British Columbia is given above.

Under the Male Minimum Wage Act, 1934 (LABOUR GAZETTE, June, 1934, page 510), minimum rates of wages in various industries and occupations have been established by the Board of Industrial Relations. This Act applies to all employees and their employers in any industry, business, trade or occupation except farm labourers and domestic servants. In the case of handicapped, part-time and apprenticed employees, the Board may authorize the payment of a wage less than the fixed minimum rate, and also may define the number of such employees to whom wages lower than the minimum may be paid. In 1935, an amendment to the Act authorized the Board to establish minimum wages and working conditions for male employees under 21 years of age. The following table shows rates in effect under regulations made under the Male Minimum Wage Act:

Wages and Hours of Labour under Collective Agreements and Schedules of Wages and Hours made Obligatory by Order in Council in Certain Provinces

In certain provinces, legislation provides that the wage rates and hours of labour agreed upon by representatives of employers and workers in a trade or industry for a locality, district or the whole province may be made obligatory by Order in Council on the recommendation of the Minister in charge of the administration of labour legislation. Such rates of wages and hours of labour are noted below and are applicable to both male and female workers unless otherwise stated.

NOVA SCOTIA

Industrial Standards Act of Nova Scotia

The Industrial Standards Act of Nova Scotia was enacted in the session of the Nova Scotia Legislature March 10 to May 2, 1936. The Act, which was summarized in the LABOUR GAZETTE, July 1936, page 604, is similar to the Industrial Standards Act of Ontario as noted below under "Industrial Standards Act of Ontario." It is, however, restricted to the building and construction industry in Halifax and Dartmouth and excludes employees of the provincial government or municipalities and also excludes any employee performing temporary work or service the total amount of which does not exceed one hundred dollars.

Four schedules were made binding by Orders in Council dated September 1, 1936, fixing wage rates and hours as follows:

| | Minimum hourly wage rate | Hours per week |
|--|-----------------------------------|-------------------|
| | $ | |
| Bricklayers, Halifax and Dartmouth... | .97½ | 44 |
| Carpenters, Halifax and Dartmouth... | .60 | 44 |
| Electrical workers, Halifax and Dartmouth..... | .80 | 44 |
| Plumbers and Steamfitters, Halifax and Dartmouth..... | .75 | 44 |

Provision is made in all schedules for extra pay for overtime.

QUEBEC

Collective Labour Agreements Extension Act

The text of the Collective Labour Agreements Extension Act, Quebec, was printed in the LABOUR GAZETTE, May 1934, page 417, and amendments to the Act were summarized in the issues of June, 1935, page 526, and July, 1936, page 607. Under this Act applications may be made to the provincial Minister of Labour by either party to a collective agreement made between, on the one hand, one or more associations of bona fide employees, and on the other hand, employers or one or more associations of employers, to have those terms of such agreement which concern rates of wages, hours of labour and apprenticeship made obligatory on all employees and employers in the same trade, industry or business within the territorial jurisdiction determined by the agreement. The application is then printed in the Quebec Official Gazette, and during the following thirty days, objections may be made to the Minister of Labour. After this delay, if the Minister of Labour deems that the provisions of the agreement "have acquired a preponderant significance and importance" that would make the establishment of these conditions advisable, an Order in Council may be passed making the terms obligatory on all employees and employers in the trade, industry or business in the territory included in the agreement from the date of the publication of the Order in Council in the Quebec Official Gazette for the duration of the agreement. The provisions of an agreement thus made obligatory govern all individual labour contracts in the trade, industry or business and district, except that those individual contracts which are to the advantage of the employee will have effect unless expressly prohibited in the agreement which has been approved by Order in Council. The agreements apply to both male and female employees unless otherwise stated, but many of the agreements provide that in no case may the wage rates for female workers be less than stated in an order of the Minimum Wage Board. The applications for extension of agreements have been noted and the conditions of the various agreements made obligatory by Orders in Council have been given in the LABOUR GAZETTE beginning in the issue of June, 1934.

BAKING INDUSTRY.—Agreements approved by Order in Council, as to wages and other working conditions in the baking industry and for bakery deliverymen provide for the following minimum weekly wage rates and maximum hours: Quebec—bakers $19 to $22, apprentices $6 for beginners, bakers of doughnuts and rolls $8 to $20, which rates may be reduced 15 per cent outside a 15 mile radius from the City of Quebec and Levis, hours 72 per week, (LABOUR GAZETTE, February, June, November, 1935, January and May, 1936); delivery salesmen, Quebec, $15, helpers $6, deliverymen (not salesmen) $10, which rates may be reduced 10 per cent outside a 15 miles radius from the City of Quebec and Levis, hours 72 per week, (LABOUR GAZETTE, July, 1935, February, April and May, 1936). Three Rivers—bakers $15 to $22, apprentice bakers $5 to $10; delivery salesmen $9 plus a commission of 7 per cent on money collected, helper (permitted only with a handicapped regular man) $5 (LABOUR GAZETTE, February, May and October, 1935, January and March, 1936). Sherbrooke—bakers $13 to $20, apprentices $6 (LABOUR GAZETTE March, 1935). Montreal—men in charge of the oven, the dough or the pastry $22, journeymen bakers, helpers and labourers $18, apprentices $10 to $12, a 60 hour week for inside workers; salesmen $15; (LABOUR GAZETTE, August and October, 1935, January and April, 1936). Hull—bakers $12 to $28, confectioners $20, apprentices $6 to $12; hours 60 per week (LABOUR GAZETTE, June and October, 1935).

FUR INDUSTRY, Montreal and District.—An Order in Council which was summarized in the LABOUR GAZETTE, June and November, 1936, provides for the following minimum weekly wage rates in the district comprising the Island of Montreal and the area within 50 miles of it: Cutters—first class $35, second class $28; operators (male)—first class $28, second class $20; operators (female)—first class $20, second class $15; finishers (female)—first class $18, second class $14; apprentice cutters, trimmers, blockers and nailers—first class $20, second class $12; examiners—first class $24, second class $12; finishers (male)—first class $24, second class $20. Hours: 40 per week on the Island of Montreal and a radius of 10 miles from its limits and in the rest of the district for establishments with more than three workers; 48 per week in the area within a radius of 40 miles of the first area for establishments with three workers or less.

SHOE MANUFACTURING, PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.—This agreement, approved by Order in Council (LABOUR GAZETTE, September, 1934, February, 1935, January and February, 1936) applies to all male employees in the boot and shoe manufacturing industry throughout the province. Employees are divided into four trade classes A, B, C, and D. BUILDING TRADES.—The agreements in the building trades in various sections of the province, which have been made obligatory by Orders in Council, have been summarized in the LABOUR GAZETTE during 1934, 1935 and 1936. In most cases the agreements cover specified sections of the province, comprising several counties as well as the principal city. Building trades agreements which are in effect under these Orders in Council cannot apply to the agricultural industry. The minimum wage rates which were in effect at the end of the year 1936 under Orders in Council are shown in the accompanying table.

The agreements in many cases also specify minimum weekly rates, lower than the standard hourly rates, for workmen permanently employed on maintenance work for churches, chapels, seminaries, colleges, convents, monasteries, hospitals, orphanages, asylums or other charitable institutions or in manufacturing establishments. These weekly rates are not shown in the table. Minimum wage rates for apprentices which are set in many of the agreements are also omitted from this table.

ONTARIO

The Industrial Standards Act of Ontario

The Industrial Standards Act of Ontario, the text of which was printed in the LABOUR GAZETTE, June, 1935, page 534, with amendments in the issue of May, 1936, page 410, provides that the Minister of Labour for Ontario may, upon petition of representatives of employees or employers in any industry, convene or authorize an officer to convene a conference or series of conferences of employees and employers in the industry, in any zone or zones to investigate the conditions of labour and practices in such industry and to negotiate standard rates of wages and hours of labour. The employees and employers in attendance may formulate and agree upon a schedule of wages and hours of labour for all or any class of employees in such industry or district. If in the opinion of the Minister a schedule of wages and hours for any industry is agreed upon in writing by a proper and sufficient representation of employees and of employers, he may approve of it, and upon his recommendation, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may declare such schedule to be in force during pleasure or for the period, not exceeding twelve months, stipulated in the schedule, and thereupon such schedule shall be binding upon every employee or employer in such industry in the whole or any part of the Province designated by the Minister, such schedule not coming into effect until ten days after publication of the Order in Council in The Ontario Gazette. The Minimum Wage

The terms of this schedule relating to working hours and minimum wage rates were the same as in the agreement which is in effect in the Province of Quebec and is summarized above under "The Collective Labour Agreements Extension Act," except that the provisions relating to apprentices are not in the Ontario schedule, and except that the Board set up under the Industrial Standards Act is to determine rates for handicapped workers.

ALBERTA

Industrial Standards Act of Alberta

This Act is similar to the Industrial Standards Act of Ontario which is noted above. The text of the Act was published in the LABOUR GAZETTE, June 1935, page 534, and amendment noted in the issue of June 1936, page 501. The following schedules have been made binding under this Act:

The schedule which governs the trade in Edmonton extends also to the surrounding district, and provides for a 54 hour week, with the following minimum weekly wage scale, effective from January 8, 1937: foreman $25.50, doughmen, ovenmen and bench hands $23, helpers, shippers and packers $18, wrappers $12.50, apprentices $12.50 first year, $14 second year, $16 third year, salesmen or deliverymen $21.

The Calgary schedule also extends to the surrounding district, with the following minimum wage scale for a 54 hour week: doughmen, ovenmen and bench hands $21.50, helpers, shippers and packers $15, wrappers $12.50, apprentices $8 first six months, $10 second six months, $12.50 second year and $15 third Minimum hourly wage rates are: from 71½ cents to 81¼ cents in brewing department ($157 per month for first cellar man); from 62½ cents to 75 cents in bottling department (except labourers for first six months 57¼ cents and first bottle yard men $145 per month); from 66¾ to 75¼ cents for engineers and firemen $189 per month for chief engineers); general mechanics 72 cents, mechanics' helpers 62½ cents.

BUILDING TRADES.—Schedules governing certain building trades in the cities of Edmonton, Calgary and Wetaskiwin, and in the district surrounding the City in each case, have been summarized in the LABOUR GAZETTE, April, July, September and November, 1936. The minimum wage rates and hours in effect under such schedules are shown in the accompanying table. Provision for apprentices' wages is made in some cases but not shown in this table.

Department of Trade and Industry Act of Alberta

Under the provisions of the Department of Trade and Industry Act, 1934, a code of Fair Competition and Business Practice and Schedule of Prices for the Printing Industry was approved by the Minister of Trade and Industry, on petition of the members of the commercial printing industry in the province, and with the regulations was approved by Order in Council on October 9, 1936.

The code provides for a 44 hour week at regular pay except that in smaller municipalities, if necessary, permission to work up to 50 hours per week may be given by the Board of Industrial Relations.

In cities or other municipalities where agreements are in effect in the industry, between employers and Canadian or international unions, such conditions are made binding in all establishments. In municipalities where no such agreement exists, hours of labour, wages and working conditions must be submitted for approval to the Board of Industrial Relations. The wages and hours under union agreements on record in the Federal Department of Labour as being in force for job-printing establishments in Alberta are as follows: Edmonton compositors and pressmen, $37.40, 44 hours per week; Calgary, compositors $36.80, 40 hours per week and 92 cents per hour, 44 hours per week; pressmen, cylinder, $40.50, platen, $36.80, 44 hours per week; Lethbridge, compositors $37.40, 44 hours per week; Medicine Hat, compositors $35.64, 44 hours per week.

Codes for retail stores and for dyeing and cleaning require that for all employees the wages and hours under minimum wage orders shall be observed.

Maximum Hours of Labour as Limited by Provincial Legislation

Legislation on the statute books of the provinces governing various work-places such as factories, mines and shops, etc., limits the working period for certain classes of employees. This statutory regulation of hours deals, for the most part, with the working conditions of women and young persons.

In addition to the hours provisions in certain Acts, two provinces, British Columbia and Alberta, have enacted statutes establishing a uniform standard of hours in industry. In another province, Quebec, legislation has been passed to enable the working period to be shortened with a view to making possible the employment of more workers.

In British Columbia, the Hours of Work Act of 1923, was re-enacted, with amendments, in 1934. The Act sets a maximum limit of eight hours in a day and 48 in a week for persons employed in mining, manufacturing and construction and in such other industries or occupations as may be added by regulation. Up to the present time, barbering, baking, catering, drug stores, transportation, the occupations of hotel clerk and elevator operator, the mercantile industry and the soft drinks industry have been brought within the Act. The Board of Industrial Relations administering the Act may make exemptions or add other industries.

In Alberta an Hours of Work Act which came into effect on September 1, 1936, provided for an eight-hour day and a 48-hour week for female employees, and a nine-hour day and a 54-hour week for male workers. The Act applies to any establishment, work or undertaking in or about any industry, trade or occupation with the exception of farming and domestic service. It does not affect the provisions of the Coal Mines Regulation Act which provides an eight-hour day for underground workers.

Exemption from the hours limitation is made in both provinces in the case of persons holding confidential, supervisory or managerial positions.

Since June 10, 1933, an Act respecting the Limiting of Working Hours has been in force in Quebec. The Lieutenant-Governor in Council is empowered to limit the number of hours in a day or a week during which a workman employed in manual labour may work. Orders under this authority cover the building industry in St. Hyacinthe, and in the Montreal, Quebec and Eastern Townships Divisions; male and female operators in hair-dressing establishments and beauty parlours on the Island of Montreal and employees in shoe repair and shoe shining parlours in the same district.

The Nova Scotia Legislature, in 1935, passed the Limitation of Hours of Labour Act relating to mining, manufacturing and construction. The kinds of undertakings to which the Act was to apply and the number of hours of work were to be fixed by a Board of Adjustment. It has not yet been proclaimed in force.

In New Brunswick, in 1936 a Fair Wage Act provided that the Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities, when directed by the Minister of Health and Labour, may establish fair rates of wages and the maximum hours for which such wages shall be paid in any trade, industry or business. Where unfair conditions seem to exist voluntary adjustment through conferences of employers and workers may be sought.

MINING AND METALLURGICAL INDUSTRIES

Legislation has been enacted in all the provinces, except Manitoba and Prince Edward Island, providing for an eight-hour day for certain classes of miners.

In Alberta, underground workers have an eight-hour day, including the time spent going to and from the working face.

In Ontario, miners have an eight-hour day, reckoned from the time of arrival at the working face, in those parts of the province without county organization. In these areas are included all the principal mining operations in the province. The hours limitation may be extended to other parts of the province by proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. Elevator and hoist operators in mines may not be required to work more than eight hours in any 24. In case of emergency the time may be extended by four hours in 24, for a period not longer than 10 consecutive days.

In the Yukon, the maximum working hours in underground quartz or lode mining and placer mining are limited to eight in 24 except for purposes of changing shifts or in an emergency in placer mining. In placer mining overtime may be worked under a written agreement between employer and employee except where the latter is engaged by the month.

In British Columbia, an eight-hour day is in force for workers both above and below ground in coal and metal mines. This period includes the time the underground worker takes to reach the working face. Employees in metallurgical works, including stationary engineers, also have an eight-hour day by legislation.

In Quebec, the underground employment of boys under 17 years for more than 48 hours in a week is prohibited.

In Nova Scotia, an eight-hour day is provided for underground workers. This has been extended to workers above ground by agreements between mining companies and the unions.

In Saskatchewan mines, a statutory eight-hour day is in force for all mine workers except where otherwise agreed upon by employers and employees.

In Manitoba, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may make regulations governing hours of miners but up to the present, no action has been taken. There is practically no mineral development in Prince Edward Island.

FACTORIES

Factory laws in the Canadian provinces limit the hours of work for women and young persons except in Alberta and British Columbia, where the Hours of Work Acts apply to all employees. Exemptions may be made, in all provinces, either by permit from the factory inspector or, in the case of the two western provinces, by the Board of Industrial Relations or by regulation.

In New Brunswick, for females, and in Ontario, for females and for boys under 16, the maximum hours are 10 in a day with a 60-hour week; in Quebec for females and boys under 18, the maximum is 10 hours daily with a 55-hour week; and in Saskatchewan for females and boys under 16 a 48-hour week.

The Nova Scotia Act imposes no limitation on hours of work under normal conditions, but in all these provinces, New Brunswick, Ontario, Quebec, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia, provision is made for emergencies. With a permit, an extension of hours may be made in Ontario, Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan up to 12½ hours in a day and 72½ hours in a week on not more than 36 days in the year; in New Brunswick to 13½ hours in a day and 81 hours in a week for a maximum of 36 days and in Quebec to 12 hours in a day and 65 hours in a week for six weeks in the year.

In addition to these maximum hours provisions, the working period in factories is fixed for the same classes of workers. In New Brunswick the employment of women and young persons is prohibited between 10.30 p.m. and 6 a.m.; in Nova Scotia, between 9 p.m. and 6 a.m.; in Ontario between 6.30 p.m. and 7 a.m.; in Quebec between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.; in Saskatchewan between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. In Ontario and Quebec in emergencies the factory inspector may permit work up to 9 p.m. In these two provinces, however, women and young persons may be employed in two shifts of eight hours each, both shifts to fall between the hours of 6 a.m. and 11 p.m.

In Manitoba, the Factories Act limited the working hours of females and boys under 17 to nine in a day and 54 in a week. With permission from the inspector, the hours of females might be extended to a maximum of 12 in a day and 60 in a week for not more than 36 days in the year. There was no limit to the extension of hours for boys under 17. Work for females was prohibited between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.

An Order of the Minimum Wage Board issued in 1936, which supersedes any conflicting provisions of the Factories Act, provides that no female and no boy under 18 shall be employed for more than eight hours in a day, or nine hours in a day if there is a half-holiday in the week, or for more than 48 hours in a week. No male person over 18 years of age may be employed in factories in Greater Winnipeg for more than 48 hours in a week, unless overtime is paid at the rate of 30 cents an hour. No person under 17 may be required to work overtime, and no male under 18 or any female may work overtime for more than three hours in a day or more than six hours in a week.

Prince Edward Island has no Factories Act.

SHOPS

In Alberta, shops are governed by the Hours of Work Act.

In British Columbia, the Hours of Work Act applies to all wholesale or retail establishments in the province except that temporary exemption from the 8-hour day daily limit may be granted, by Order in Council, for special purposes such as the Christmas shopping season. Except in the cities of Vancouver, North Vancouver and Victoria, the municipalities of the Districts of West Vancouver, Burnaby, Oak Bay and Saanich and the municipality of the Township of Esquimalt, the daily limit may also be exceeded by three hours on Saturday or on a day before a statutory holiday when falling on a Saturday but the total number of hours worked in any one week may not exceed 48. Persons employed in drugstores may work four hours per week in excess of 48 hours, but in no case may hours of work exceed nine in a day. These regulations came into effect on October 1, 1936, and continue until September 30, 1937.

Under the Industrial and Commercial Establishments Act of Quebec, females and boys under 18 may be employed in shops for a maximum of 60 hours in a week in towns of 10,000 population or more. For two weeks before New Year's Day or with a permit for not more than six weeks, the time may be extended up to 12 hours in a day and 65 hours in a week.

In Nova Scotia, under the Children's Protection Act, girls under 16 and boys under 14 years of age may not work in a shop for more than eight hours in a day, exclusive of meal times, or more than four hours on Saturday, with the exception of drivers, etc.

In Manitoba, under the Shops Regulation Act, women and girls over 14 and boys over 14 and under 17 years might be employed for 14 hours in a day and 60 hours in a week, with the exception of those engaged in out-of-doors work such as drivers, etc., who may be employed for a maximum of 66 hours in a week. In emergencies, the inspector might permit extension of hours for anyone over 16 years of age to 70 in a week.

By a Minimum Wage Order, however, females and boys under 18 employed in shops, stores, etc. in Manitoba may not work for more than 9 hours a day or 48 a week, except that 11½ hours may be worked on Saturday.

Under the Shops Act, boys or girls under 14 years of age, and exempt from school attendance, may be employed for a maximum of eight hours in a day and 48 hours in a week. Boys over 13 and under 14 years may be employed for two hours on school days and eight hours on holidays.

In Ontario, shops are regulated under the Factory, Shop and Office Building Act and maximum working hours in shops are the same as those for factories, that is, 10 hours in a day, and 60 a week for females and boys under 16.

BAKESHOPS AND BAKERIES

In New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, and in Quebec, employment in bakeshops is not governed by statute but large bakeries would come under the factory laws in all provinces. They are specifically included in the factories Acts of Ontario, Alberta and Saskatchewan and are subject to the hours provisions governing these establishments in the two last named provinces.

In Ontario, since 1934, the hours of adult male employees in bakeries have been limited to 56 in a week, except with written permission of the inspector, but no permission is required for overtime on Friday when a statutory or civic holiday occurs on the following Monday. No work, except that of a preliminary kind, may be done on Sunday between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m., but this prohibition does not apply to employees whose daily period of work is not more than eight hours between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. and who regularly receive a weekly day of rest. Anyone working more than nine hours in one work period or during any 24 consecutive hours, must be given at least 24 hours rest period unless a special permit has been obtained.

The Manitoba Bakeshop Act limits the working hours of all employees to 12 hours in a day and 60 in a week.

BARBERSHOPS AND HAIR DRESSING ESTABLISHMENTS

In the Western provinces hairdressing and beauty-parlour establishments are under the Minimum Wage Acts, and working hours are limited under the authority of these statutes.

In Ontario, a "shop" in the Factory, Shop and Office Building Act includes a place where services are offered for sale and, therefore, the term would appear to cover barber-shops beauty-parlours, etc.

In Quebec, under the Act respecting the Limiting of Working Hours, an Order in Council provides a 55-hour week for male and female employees in all hair dressing and beauty-parlour establishments on the Island of Montreal. The working hours must fall between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m., except on Saturdays when the time may be extended to 9 p.m.

SHOE REPAIR AND SHOE SHINE SHOPS

In Quebec, under the same authority, hours in these work-places, which are not governed by the Industrial and Commercial Establishments Act, are limited by Order in Council to 64 in a week, except with an overtime permit, which may extend the time by two hours in a day but not more than six hours in a week.

These work-places are also governed in Ontario and the Western provinces in the same way as barber shops.

HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS

Working hours in hotels and restaurants are regulated in Alberta and British Columbia under the Hours of Work Acts and in Ontario for female workers, under the Factory, Shop and Office Building Act.

In Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, there is statutory provision for one day's rest in seven for employees in hotels and restaurants in certain classes of towns.

In Ontario, the Act applies to cities and towns having a population of 10,000 or more.

In Quebec, Orders in Council under the One Day's Rest in Seven Act, issued in January and May, 1935, provides a weekly rest day of 24 consecutive hours or, in the Quebec District with permission of the factory inspector, two periods of 18 consecutive hours in the same week. The maximum consecutive hours which may be worked by any employee are limited to 12 in any 24 and office employees must have at least 12 hours consecutive rest. These regulations do not apply, however, to establishments employing less than 5 persons if situated in municipalities with less than 3,000 population.

In Manitoba and Saskatchewan, hotels and restaurants are governed by the One Day's Rest in Seven Acts, which apply only to cities.

OFFICES

In Alberta, the hours of office employees are governed by the Hours of Work Act, that is, maximum hours for females are eight a day and 48 a week and for males nine a day and 54 a week.

In other provinces persons employed in clerical work in such establishments as factories, shops, etc., would seem to come within the scope of the laws limiting hours in these work-places.

TRANSPORTATION

(a) Steam:

In Ontario, a company operating a railway of 20 miles or more in length may not employ a conductor, engineer, motorman, fireman, trainman, despatcher or signalman for more than 16 hours without a rest period of at least six hours.

(b) Electric:

The Ontario Municipal Board has power to regulate hours for employees on street railways, including buses or other vehicles operated in connection with a street railway, but the statute stipulates that the hours of such persons shall not exceed 10 in one day for a maximum of six days in a week, the day's work to be performed, wherever possible, within 12 consecutive hours.

(c) Road:

Six provinces, Alberta, Manitoba, New Brunswick, Ontario, Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan, specifically regulate the working hours of drivers engaged in passenger and incidental freight transportation.

Such drivers in Alberta may not be required to do more than nine hours of actual driving in any 24-hour period.

In an Act respecting taxicabs in Greater were set at 12 in a day for not more than six Winnipeg, the maximum hours for drivers days in a week. The Taxicab Board however was empowered to reduce these daily hours. The Municipal and Public Utility Board in Manitoba is empowered to regulate the working conditions of drivers of public service and commercial vehicles. A regulation provides maximum hours of 9 a day in driving and 12 a day in any capacity for 6 days in a week.

In New Brunswick, regulations under the Motor Carriers' Act limit working hours of drivers of motor cars, trucks and buses, etc., operated for compensation. They may not be employed for more than 10 hours in any consecutive 16, except in emergency.

In Ontario, no driver of a public vehicle may work more than 10 hours in any 24.

In Prince Edward Island, drivers of trucks and buses upon the highway may not be required to work for more than 10 hours in any 24.

Under the Public Service Vehicles Act, of Saskatchewan, the Public Utility Board may regulate hours of work for drivers of public service and commercial vehicles, not including motor vehicles carrying passengers for an electric or steam railway. Drivers of public passenger vehicles, such as buses, may not work for more than 9 hours of actual driving in any 24-hour period.

In British Columbia, truck transportation was brought under the Hours of Work Act by regulation in June, 1935, thus giving an eight-hour day and 48-hour week to employees. Overtime, except for operators of motorcycles, bicycle riders and foot messengers employed exclusively on delivery or messenger work and milkmen, is limited to six hours in a week, but no employee may work more than 10 hours in any one day. Milkmen may work 15 hours in excess of 48 hours in a week, but over a period of seven weeks work may not be in excess of 378 hours, or more than 10 hours in any one day.

In 1936, an amendment in the Nova Scotia Vehicle Act provides that, subject to the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council, the Minister of Highways may make regulations governing hours of labour for drivers of commercial vehicles.

BUILDING TRADES

Under the authority of the Quebec Act respecting the Limiting of Working Hours. Orders in Council have been issued applying to the building trades. Hours of labour are limited to eight in a day and 40 a week in the Montreal Division, including the judicial districts of Montreal, Montcalm, Hull, Pontiac, Terrebonne, Joliette, St. Hyacinthe, Chambly, Iberville and Richelieu. Any contractor may adopt the two-shift system with a six-hour day and a six-day week for each shift. The two-shift system is compulsory from May 1 to October 1 on works costing more than $20,000 for the government, municipal and school corporations, fabrique or parish trustees, or on works partly financed by the government.

From May 1, 1935, building workers in the county of St. Hyacinthe were made subject to a 48-hour week with a daily maximum of eight hours.

Similar regulations to those in the Montreal Division were laid down for the Quebec Division, comprising the judicial districts of Quebec, Three Rivers, Beauce, Montmagny, Nicolet, Kamouraska, Chicoutimi, Roberval, Saguenay, Rimouski, Gaspé and Abitibi and for the Eastern Townships Division, including Bedford, St. Francis and Arthabaska. The order does not apply, however, if the total cost of the works is under $300 for the Quebec Division and under $200 for the Eastern Townships Division. From June 1, 1936, an amending order established an eight-hour day and 48-hour week in these two divisions. The two-shift system is compulsory for the same class of works during the summer season as in the Montreal Division, but in the Quebec and Eastern Townships Divisions each shift covers at least eight hours on six days a week.

MUNICIPAL FIRE DEPARTMENTS

The Legislatures of Alberta, British Columbia, Nova Scotia, Ontario and Saskatchewan have enacted measures for regulating the working hours of persons employed by municipal fire departments. A two-platoon system is provided for in all these provinces.

In Alberta, in every place having a paid fire department all employees may have one full day off duty in every week. In cities or towns having a population of 10,000 or more, the two-platoon system is compulsory. Under this Act alternative systems are provided: either that employees have 24 hours on duty followed by 24 hours rest, or there are day and night shifts, the shifts alternating every seven days, and covering 10 hours during the day or 14 hours at night. The one full day off duty does not include periods of release at the changing of platoons.

In British Columbia, the Fire-Departments Hours of Labour Act, applying to any place where there is a paid fire department, provides that employees must have two full days off duty each week in addition to the periods off duty under the Two-Platoon Act.

In Ontario, the Fire Departments Act applies to places having a population of not less than 10,000 and a permanent fire department paid by the municipal corporation. The two-platoon system is compulsory, every employee having 24 consecutive hours off duty, not including periods of release at the change of platoons.

In Nova Scotia, in cities having not less than 30,000 population where there is a permanent fire department paid by the city, the two-platoon system comes into force when it is approved by a majority of the city council.

In Saskatchewan, in any city of 10,000 or more population having a permanent fire department paid by the city, employees have 24 consecutive hours off duty, not including periods of release at the changing of platoons, if it is so decided by by-law, the vote to be taken upon the submission, before November 1 in any year, of a petition signed by not less than one-tenth of the electorate.

PUBLIC WORKS

In British Columbia, provincial public works are included in the undertakings governed by the Hours of Work Act.

The Manitoba Fair Wage Act empowers the Minister of Public Works to limit the number of daily hours for persons employed on provincial public works. Under this authority, maximum hours varying from 44 to 48 in a week are in effect except for teamsters who have a maximum work-week of 54 hours. In 1934, these provisions were extended to certain private works.

In Ontario, the Government Contracts Hours and Wages Act came into force on January 1, 1937, and is generally similar to the Fair Wages and Hours of Labour Act passed by the Dominion Parliament in 1935. The Act provides for an eight-hour day and a 44-hour week on construction works undertaken by the Provincial Government by contract and on works aided by the province.

In Quebec, by an Order in Council in April, 1929, the Minister of Public Works and Labour was empowered to determine fair and reasonable hours of labour in connection with all construction contracts made on behalf of the Government. In 1932, provision was made to include such conditions in contracts made by any other government department. In this province, the hours of employees on certain public works are restricted by the Act respecting the Limiting of Working Hours wherever such works come within the scope of the Act.

In the Yukon, there is a statutory eight-hour day for persons employed on public works except in cases of "extraordinary emergency."

Other provinces have at one time or another, adopted a "fair-wage" policy in connection with public works. There is no information as to how far this policy affects hours of labour.

WAGES AND HOURS OF LABOUR IN CANADA

1929, 1936 and 1937*

THE present bulletin, the twenty-first in the series on Wages and Hours of Labour, contains data for the years 1929, 1936 and 1937, but the tables on building, printing, metal trades and electric street railways give figures for 1920, 1926, and 1930 to 1937, while the table on steam railways is for the years 1920 to 1937 inclusive. In the appendices information is given as to minimum wage rates and maximum hours of labour under provincial legislation, also as to the federal government fair wage policy, wages in agriculture in 1936 and certain previous years, average earnings of steam railway employees in recent years with numbers employed in 1936, average earnings of coal miners with numbers employed and days worked from 1921 to 1936 and also average earnings of employees in merchandising and service establishments in 1936.

The table of index numbers of rates of wages contains figures showing changes in a number of occupational groups, from 1901 to 1937, and for certain other groups from 1911 to 1937, the base year being 1913. Index numbers for other groups have not been calculated as figures back to 1913 have not been compiled and published.

Changes in Wages

The recovery in wages, which first appeared in logging and sawmilling and in common factory labour in 1934 and extended to all groups in 1935, continued during 1936 and 1937. The average increases in 1937 were most important—in metal trades 10 per cent, on steam railways nearly 7 per cent, factory labour about 8 per cent, and in logging and sawmilling about 13 per cent. In building trades the increase was less than three per cent and in the remaining groups the increases were smaller. In coal mining rates were increased in Nova Scotia. On steam railways the deduction from earnings in effect since 1931 was partly cancelled. In manufacturing industries the important increases appeared as follows: automobiles and automobile parts 15 per cent, cotton 11 per cent, meat packing 19 per cent, pulp and paper 12 per cent, crude, rolled and forged iron and steel products 14 per cent,

* The first report in this series was issued as a supplement to the LABOUR GAZETTE for March, 1921, and contained figures as to wages and hours of labour for certain trades in various cities in Canada from 1901 to 1920, with index numbers by groups based on wages in 1913 as 100. It also contained samples of wage rates for common labour in factories, miscellaneous factory trades in a small number of industries, and wages in lumbering from 1911 to 1920, with index numbers. Subsequent reports, in most cases issued as supplements to the LABOUR GAZETTE for January each year, brought these figures down to date with extensions from time to time to include additional industries and classes of labour.

The present report includes data as to wages and hours on steamships on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River, a transportation industry not hitherto covered.

Certain of these reports, however, contained special features. Report No. 5 (1923) dealt with Hours of Labour in Canada and Other Countries. Report No. 3 (January, 1922) included an appendix with statistics of wages and hours in coal mining in Canada from 1900 to 1921 with index numbers for the three principal districts. Report No. 7 (January, 1925) included an appendix with figures for agriculture from 1914 to 1923. Report No. 11 (January, 1928) contained an appendix on wages of employees of steam railways, considerably increasing the information for the years since 1917 with a more extensive record from 1901 to 1927 and also a new series of index numbers. Each report from No. 7 (January, 1925), to No. 14 (January, 1931), contained data not only for the previous year but back to 1920, except that figures for 1922, 1923 and 1924, the years of least change, were omitted from some of the tables owing to lack of space. Report No. 15, issued in January, 1932, contained data for the years 1926, 1930 and 1931, with figures for 1920 also in some cases. Report No. 16, issued in January, 1933, afforded figures for 1930, 1931 and 1932 with figures for 1920 and 1926 also in some tables. Subsequent reports in each case have included figures for the calendar year just ended, for the preceding year and for 1929.

In Report No. 15 (January, 1932) the number of cities for which data were given in Table I as to building trades and electric railways was increased to approximately forty, and in the case of printing trades to fifteen, and these cities have since been covered in subsequent reports. Previously this table covered only thirteen cities, except that data for building trades in Windsor, Ont., were included, beginning with the report for 1928. Sheet metal workers employed in building and construction have been included with building trades since 1927, while sheet metal workers in factories have been included in the table on manufacturing industries. The section of the table on metal trades previously given was omitted from Reports Nos. 15 and 16 for 1931 and 1932 but figures for these trades appeared in the tables of sample rates of wages and hours in the sections of Table X on foundries and machine shops and other metal manufacturing industries. This section of Table No. 1 was, however, included in Report No. 17 with figures for 1920, 1926 and 1930 to 1933 and has been continued in subsequent reports. As in previous reports figures on wages for the metal trades in mines and on railways appear in the tables on those industries.

The appendix on wages and hours under provincial minimum wage legislation, included in recent years beginning with Report No. 12, issued in January, 1929, was enlarged in Report No. 18, January, 1936, and in subsequent reports, to include also data as to wage rates in certain collective labour agreements enforceable under legislation in several of the provinces. Report No. 20, January, 1937, contained a section on hours of labour under provincial legislation.

foundry and machine shop products 8 per cent, agricultural implements and stoves and furnaces 7 per cent, furniture 9 per cent, electrical apparatus, batteries and radio receiving sets and parts 7 to 10 per cent, rubber products, ready-made clothing and flour 7 per cent. Wages in all of the other manufacturing industries were up from 3 to 5 per cent.

For previous years it will be seen from the table of index numbers that by 1920 wages had reached levels about 100 per cent higher than in 1913, in some groups the increase being over one hundred per cent while for building and printing trades the increases were appreciably less, being only about 80 per cent. After 1920

all groups showed some decreases, although printing trades and coal mining reached the peak in 1921 instead of 1920, declining somewhat thereafter. The decreases in coal mining in 1925 were comparatively steep and tended to reduce the average for the six groups averaged for the period back to 1901. From 1925 to 1930 the movement was upward in each group.

In 1930 the index numbers for most of the groups were slightly higher but that for lumbering declined slightly. In 1931 all groups were downward except printing trades and coal mining. In 1932 and 1933 all groups were down, the greatest decreases being in lumbering and building trades.

(d) Two classes from 1901 to 1920, five classes 1921 to 1937.

(e) Twenty-three classes.

(g) The number of samples (and industries) increased from time to time since 1920; machine operators, helpers, etc., also included.

In 1934 lumbering showed substantial increases, factory labour also advanced appreciably and coal mining slightly while the other groups were lower. In 1935 all groups were appreciably higher and the upward movement continued during 1936 and 1937.

Building Trades

In the building trades up to 1919 there were smaller increases than in any of the other groups, but in 1920 there were considerable increases. In 1921 decreases of 10 cents per hour were general and in 1922 decreases of 5 cents per hour were numerous. In 1923, 1924 and 1925, while there were upward movements in the average, it was due to increases in particular trades and in certain cities, and not to a general upward movement for most of the trades and localities. From 1926 to 1930, the upward movement was somewhat more general. During 1931 there were numerous decreases, in some localities the reduction being general while in others it was confined to certain trades. During 1932 and 1933 the decreases were general, averaging about 10 per cent, while in 1934 there were decreases in some trades in certain cities but no general downward tendency appeared. In some cases there were increases so that the average decrease was about 3 per cent. In 1935, increases occurred chiefly in Quebec and Ontario, some of them due to agreements which established minimum wages under provincial legislation as outlined in Appendix E. In 1936 the upward movement continued with, however, decreases in certain trades in a few localities. In 1937 there were increases in several of the localities.

Metal Trades

In the metal trades the increase in wage rates from 1915 to 1918 was greater than in most of the other groups, there being a good demand for labour in the manufacture of munitions. During the industrial activity in 1919 and 1920 further increases were made, but in 1921 and 1922 considerable decreases occurred. In 1923 and 1924 some recovery was experienced, in 1925 there was practically no change, from 1926 to 1930 there were some slight changes upward, but during 1931 the changes were downward, while during 1932 and 1933 the decreases averaged 5 per cent and 3 per cent respectively. In 1934 there were comparatively few decreases, with some increases, so that the average was down less than one per cent. In 1935 wages recovered, being slightly higher than in 1934, and this slight recovery continued in 1936 and became substantial in 1937.

Printing Trades

In the printing trades up to 1920 increases were somewhat less than in most of the other industries but in 1921 when many of the three or five-year agreements between employers and the unions expired, rates were advanced and hours were reduced in many cases. Increases appeared each year thereafter down to 1931. During 1932 decreases of 10 per cent were general in the western provinces and were made in some cities in the east. In 1933 the decreases were general, averaging 5 per cent. In 1934, while there were further decreases, there were some increases, the average being down less than one per cent. In 1935, 1936 and 1937 there were a few increases.

Electric Street Railways

In electric railway service, rates had almost doubled by 1920, but declined slightly in 1921 and 1922, recovering somewhat in 1923 and very gradually each year thereafter until 1931 after which reductions occurred each year.

Since 1930, on many of these railways, with reduced traffic, operating costs were lowered to some extent by reducing hours per day, and therefore daily wages, instead of reducing hourly rates. In 1934 very few changes in wages were made so that the index number was practically unchanged. In 1935, 1936 and 1937 there were a few increases.

Steam Railways

In steam railway employment, wage increases were considerable in 1918, 1919 and 1920, but in 1921, decreases averaging about 12 per cent for all classes were made and in 1922 decreases for shop crafts, maintenance of way employees and for freight handlers, clerks, etc., were made, averaging about 10 per cent. In 1926, at the end of the year, wages of conductors, trainmen, brakemen, baggagemen, and yardmen were advanced about 6 per cent, that is, by half the amount of the reduction in 1921, and during 1927 similar increases were made in rates for other classes. In 1929, increases were secured by shop and maintenance of way employees and by certain classes of train crews on some lines. In 1931, while practically all classes were to a great extent on short time, changes in rates were not made until the end of the year when a 10 per cent deduction from each employee's pay was made for train, engine and telegraph service employees from December first. In the early months of 1932 the same deduction was applied to other classes.

In 1933, earnings of employees in engine, train and telegraph services were subjected to a deduction of 20 per cent from May to October, inclusive, and 15 per cent thereafter. The deduction for most of the other classes was increased to 15 per cent in December.

Toward the end of 1934 amendments to the agreements between the railway companies and the employees provided that the general deduction of 15 per cent would be changed to one of 12 per cent on January, 1935, and to 10 per cent on May 1, 1935. Early in 1937 an amendment to each agreement provided that the deduction would be as follows: February 1, 9 per cent; April 1, 8 per cent; June 1, 7 per cent; August 1, 6 per cent; October 1, 5 per cent; December 1, 4 per cent; February 1, 1938, 2 per cent; April 1, 1938, none.

Coal Mining

In coal mining the index number reached its peak in 1921, increases having been made in the closing weeks of 1920. In 1922 decreases were made in Nova Scotia and Vancouver Island and in 1923 and 1924 slight decreases occurred in the latter. A substantial decrease occurred in Alberta and southeastern British Columbia in 1924. In 1925 decreases occurred in the three principal districts, being especially steep in Alberta and southeastern British Columbia. Slight increases, however, were provided for a number of classes in some of the mines in Alberta toward the end of the year. In 1926, reductions were effected in Nova Scotia but wages in the other fields were practically unchanged. Slight increases were made in some mines in Alberta in 1928. In Nova Scotia in February, 1930, rates for labourers were changed by increases of 5 cents to 15 cents per day and certain other datal classes were slightly increased. During 1931 rates of wages were steady but the industry suffered greatly from short time, that is, collieries were operated less than six days per week to a great extent. In 1932 in Nova Scotia rates were reduced 10 per cent in March, except that a minimum of $3.25 per day was provided for in the principal mines. In the other districts rates were reduced only in a few of the smaller mines. In 1933, wages in the Drumheller district in Alberta were reduced more than 10 per cent. In Nova Scotia, rates were unchanged in the principal mines but there were reductions of about 15 per cent in certain mines of medium size. In 1934 partial restorations of these reductions were made in some Nova Scotia mines, while decreases occurred in New Brunswick. In 1935, increases of about 5 per cent were made in Nova Scotia and in Alberta in the Drumheller and Alberta districts. In 1937 datal rates in several of the principal mines in Nova Scotia were increased by nearly 10 per cent.

The index number for 1901 to 1935 does not include New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and the Princeton district in British Columbia. The inclusion of these figures for 1934, when weighted according to numbers of miners employed, made no change in the result.

Factory Labour

Factory labour had shown almost the greatest percentage increases up to 1920, both for common labour and for the various trades, but steep decreases appeared from 1921 to 1923 after which the trend was upward until 1931 when a considerable number of decreases occurred. In 1932 decreases in rates were numerous and steep in some cases. There was, however, a pronounced tendency to reduce hours per week or per day or both, frequently on a short time basis, with relatively small reductions in hourly rates. In some cases, where hours per day were reduced more than daily wages, the hourly rate became higher. In 1933, rates were again generally downward but less steeply. In 1934 there were numerous increases in nearly all of the manufacturing industries but comparatively few decreases so that the index number rose by nearly 3 per cent. In 1935 the upward movement continued. In Ontario and Quebec this was due to some extent to agreements establishing minimum rates in various localities and industries under provincial legislation. These are outlined in Appendix E. In 1936 wages were increased in many establishments in all manufacturing industries and in 1937 the upward movement continued being greatest in the automobile, cotton, meat packing, pulp and paper, iron and steel, furniture, electric goods, rubber, ready-made clothing and flour milling industries.

Logging and Sawmilling

In logging and sawmilling steep increases in wages appeared up to 1920, followed by particularly steep decreases in 1921, after which substantial increases occurred in 1923 and 1924, with a decrease in 1925 and slight increases each year thereafter until 1930 when more decreases than increases appeared. During 1931 decreases were general, and again in 1932, wage reductions of 20 per cent being quite common. In 1933, wages were still downward but there was a pronounced upward trend toward the end of the year for the ensuing season. In 1934, substantial increases in wages were general both in logging and in sawmills so that the index number rose by about 20 per cent. In 1935 the increases averaged 5 per cent. In 1936 wages were again upward, the increases averaging nearly 9 per cent. In 1937 the average increase was over 13 per cent.

Nature and Scope of Report

The main object of these reports is to show the changes in wages rates and in hours of labour during the periods covered. The figures given in each report afford a continuous record for the years included, the data being from the same sources as far as is possible. Whenever a new source of information becomes available, the figures for previous years are secured, if possible, and the record is revised accordingly.

Information is compiled from reports secured annually from representative employers and trade unions, and also from union agreements. The information is obtained in June for building trades, civic employees, steamships, trucking and cartage, longshoremen, logging and sawmilling, pulp and paper mills, and for automobile manufacturing, while for other trades and industries the information is secured chiefly in September. For the classes covered in June, later information is frequently received and used.

Figures are secured from practically all the large establishments in the various industries and from a representative number of the smaller establishments. These reports are supplemented by figures obtained by officers of the Department and by resident correspondents of the LABOUR GAZETTE in the principal industrial centres.

Wages in manufacturing are shown by samples numbered one, two, etc., each sample showing the predominant rate in a certain establishment; in some cases, for large establishments two or three samples are given. In the present report additional samples of rates above or below the predominant rates have been included where an appreciable number of workers were receiving such rates; where it appears to be preferable a range of predominant rates is used. For common labour in factories, sample rates are given by localities for the principal manufacturing centres. The locality in each case is not given as it would in many instances make possible the identification of the particular establishment.

For the following industries wages are given in the form of samples as in the case of factory labour: steamships, grain elevators, electric current production and transmission, telephones, laundries, logging and sawmilling, and metal mining.

Figures for particular localities are given for building, metal, and printing trades, electric railways and civic employees in Tables I and II, and for trucking and cartage, and longshoremen in Table III, also for common labour in factories in Table IX.

The statistics as to building trades show the prevailing rates of wages and hours of labour for nine classes of labour for the years 1920, 1926, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935, 1936, and 1937, for the building season beginning in the spring of each year. During the year 1931, however, changes occurred later in the season more extensively than is usual, and the rates in effect at the end of the year were therefore obtained and included. For 1933 a similar survey was made again toward the end of the year in several cities. As in all previous years, changes in rates reported down to the end of the year, from the sources mentioned above, are included. In Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta, these include agreement rates made obligatory on all employers affected under provincial legislation as to collective agreements and industrial standards; in British Columbia they include minimum rates for the construction industry under the Male Minimum Wage Act; and in Manitoba under the Fair Wages Act. Such rates of wages and hours of labour are given in Appendix E.

On steam railways, wages of employees on the regular staffs are fixed according to agreements between the several railways and the employees, members of the organizations of railway employees, the principal railways having the same rates for nearly all the principal classes. The figures published are taken from these agreements.

In water transportation the organization of various classes of employees negotiate scales of wages, hours and working conditions with many of the steamship companies although agreements are not always signed; other operators tend to pay about the same rates.

In coal mining, the wages in the principal districts are arranged by agreements between the coal mining operators and the employees, in most cases represented by unions and in others by committees of employees. The figures published from 1920 to 1933 were taken from such agreements. The figures for average earnings of contract miners, however, were received from representative employers in each district. In some of the mines in these districts the wages of unorganized employees are somewhat lower than the rates in such agreements. For Report No. 18, and subsequent reports, statements as to wage rates and hours of labour have been requested from the operators of all the larger mines throughout Canada and the figures so secured have been compiled by provinces or districts. The resulting figures include those for many mines not operated under agreements as to wages and working conditions, and cover the mines in New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and the interior of British Columbia for which figures were not previously published.

In metal mining the rates of wages and hours of labour are shown as samples for mines in the various parts of Canada, secured from representative employers.

In logging, Table VII, the data each year is for the season beginning in the autumn and ending in the spring in Eastern Canada.

Data as to Hours

In earlier reports the hours of labour shown throughout were the standard or regular hours per week, per day, etc., and did not indicate the hours actually worked either

overtime or on short time. During 1931 a number of establishments in many of the manufacturing industries reported operations on a short time basis. In the report covering that year, No. 15, wages for such establishments were given on an hourly basis or brought to a basis of full time earnings per week, per day, etc., the resulting figures as to wage rates being therefore on the same basis with those for 1926 and 1930 in the tables.

In Report No. 16, with figures for 1930, 1931 and 1932, in the tables on manufacturing industries, the hours of labour for these years were those reported by employers, whether short time or regular hours, and the wage rates were brought to an hourly basis, except in certain industries, clothing, bread, cake, biscuit, candy, brewing and paper box making for which regular hours were reported chiefly. The same procedure has been followed in subsequent reports except that wages for boot and shoe manufacturing are given on a weekly basis with the hours shown as reported. In this industry, as in some instances in clothing manufacturing, the hours actually worked by individual piece workers are usually not reported and the hours shown are those on which the department or factory is operated.

Index Numbers of Wage Rates

In Report No. 1 tables of index numbers were given in order to show the general trend of the movement in rates of wages. The first set of index numbers was for the rates of wages from 1901 to 1920 in the thirteen selected cities. For each series of rates, that is, for each trade or occupation in each locality, index numbers were calculated both from the hourly rates and from the weekly rates, and these index numbers were averaged for all localities, by groups, thus indicating the relative changes in weekly rates and in hourly rates. The year 1913 was taken as the base period, that is the rate for 1913 in each case was taken as 100, so that the index numbers showed the percentage changes in rates from time to time prior to and since that date. An average was also made for all of the series in these tables, in order to indicate the general trend in wages in such trades as a whole. In making the average index numbers for the six groups the simple arithmetical averages were taken, no allowance being made for the importance of each trade or group by using a system of weighting. In Report No. 3 this table of index numbers for the thirteen cities was brought down to September, 1921.

In subsequent reports the index numbers of hourly rates from 1901 to 1921 have been reproduced, with figures since 1921 calculated by ascertaining the average increase or decrease per cent in the figures for each group each year from the figures for the preceding year and adjusting the group index number accordingly. The index numbers therefore show approximately the movement of wage rates in each group for the past year as compared with the movement in previous years and show current levels as compared with levels in 1913. In Report No. 3 index numbers of daily wages in coal mining were given, calculated in the same manner as the index numbers in Report No. 1. The index number for the coal mining group since 1921 has been calculated in the same manner as those for the other groups. The index numbers for metal trades, previously calculated from Section b in Table I, omitted for 1931 and 1932, were calculated from the average percentage changes in the samples for such trades in Table X for those years.

A table of index numbers of wages for factory trades, for common labour in factories, and for lumbering (logging and sawmilling) calculated from the sample rates published was also given for the period 1911 to 1920 in Report No. 1. These figures have been brought down to 1937 in the same manner as the other index numbers since 1921 were calculated.

The classes of labour for which rates were used for the calculation of index numbers for the period 1901 to 1937 are, in the main, skilled trades; and practically all of these classes, including the unskilled, are organized to a great extent in trade and labour unions. The index numbers for these six groups therefore show the trend of wage rates in a number of organized occupations whose members, except coal miners and steam railway employees, work chiefly in cities. They do not, however, indicate the changes in wages outside of industrial centres.

The index numbers calculated from sample rates of wages in factories show the trend of wages for labour in manufacturing industries in which there are many establishments in small centres as well as in cities. The figures for lumbering cover sawmilling in both large and small centres and logging in the principal districts.

Beginning with Report No. 19, in addition to the simple average for the six groups with figures from 1901 to 1937, weighted averages have been calculated for these six groups and also for all nine groups in those years for which figures are available. The index number for each group is weighted by the average number of wage-earners in the industry represented, as shown by the decennial or the annual industrial census of 1921 and of 1931, the average of the figures for these two dates being taken in each case.

The weights were as follows (in thousands): building trades 143; metal trades 131; printing trades 25; electric railways 18; steam railways 161; coal mining 28; common factory labour 110; miscellaneous factory trades 363; logging and sawmilling 77.

It will be observed that this weighting has most effect in modifying the effect on the general averages of the figures for coal mining and lumbering in which from time to time since 1920 the changes have been quite different from those in the other groups.

Weighting, within groups, although desirable, has not been done. In such groups by occupations or industries weighting makes comparatively little difference as rates of wages for the various classes of labour tend to rise and fall to the same extent even in different localities. In the three groups, Common Factory Labour, Miscellaneous Factory Trades, and Logging and Sawmilling, the index numbers, being calculated from samples, the averages are automatically weighted by the number of samples which vary according to the number of workers in the various occupations and industries.

* Rate and hours approved under Industrial Standards Act, Nova Scotia, 1936.

 Beginning in 1934 agreements approved by Order in Council under the Collective Labour Agreements Extension Act, Quebec, 1934, established minimum rates of wages for various trades in cities, towns and other defined jurisdictional territory throughout the province. On May 1, 1937, the Collective Labour Agreements Extension Act, Quebec, 1934, was replaced by the Act entitled an Act Respecting Workmen's Wages. In 1935, 1936 and 1937 the minimum rate in each range is that approved under these Acts.

* The range of hours shown are full-time weekly hours; from 1931 to 1935 actual shop hours in many establishments were on a short time basis as low as 24 hours per week; a 40 hour week has been reported as standard in many cases. Data for metal trades on steam railways and in mines appear in tables for those industries.

*For electric street railways by cities, see Table I(d). Differentials on certain lines or divisions above these rates. Nearly all classes are on the basic 8-hour day with time and one-half for overtime, but in some cases some other consideration has been arranged.

†Machinists; boilermakers; blacksmiths; plumbers, etc.; sheet metal workers; cabinet makers; carpenters; coach, locomotive and bench; welders, etc. ‡Freight car carpenters; freight car painters; car inspectors, car repairers, etc. §Since 1918 employees are allowed one minute extra, for checking in and out, for each hour actually worked, thereby increasing earnings approximately one cent per hour.

(a) On Western lines Port Arthur and west, until 1929 in addition to these rates boilermakers' helpers received 5½ cents; blacksmiths' helpers, 4 cents, and other helpers 3 cents; since May 1, 1929, the differentials on western lines were boilermakers' helpers 4 cents, other helpers 2 cents.

(b) Deductions from each employee's earnings on basic rates effective as follows. Train, engine and telegraph service, 10 per cent Dec. 1, 1931; 20 per cent May 1, 1933; 15 per cent Nov. 1, 1933; Maintenance of way and bridge and building, 10 per cent May 1, 1932; 15 per cent Dec. 1, 1933; Locomotive and car shops, 10 per cent April 1, 1932; 15 per cent Dec. 16, 1933, with certain exceptions. Deduction amended for all classes effective as follows: Jan. 1, 1935, 12 per cent; May 1, 1935, 10 per cent. In 1937: Feb. 1, 9 per cent; April 1, 8 per cent; June 1, 7 per cent; Aug. 1, 6 per cent; Oct. 1, 5 per cent; Dec. 1, 4 per cent; Feb. 1, 1938, 2 per cent; April 1, 1938, none.

† Rates include board and lodging and vary to a great extent according to size or type of vessel. Hours on duty for officers, seamen, deckhands, etc., generally average twelve per day seven days per week except when in port; for engineers, firemen, oilers, etc., hours generally average eight per day, but twelve in some cases; for stewards, cooks, etc., hours vary according to requirements. All classes may be required for extra duty at any time, especially in the Great Lakes and Upper St. Lawrence service when passing through canals. On most of the British Columbia coastal passenger vessels hours for all classes average eight per day, 6 days per week, with extra pay for overtime. Some of the tug boat employees in all areas are on the eight hour day.

* The figures given for contract miners are the average earnings at piece rates and for some mines the figures include helpers and loaders on piece work; the figures given for machine and hand miners are rates per day.

† Higher rates are paid in two or three mines for some of these classes; also in the large mines for certain positions. In 1935 and 1936 nearly all surface employees were put on the eight hour day.

Weekly Earnings of Employees in Merchandising and Service Establishments in Canada, 1936

A report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics entitled "Weekly Earnings of Employees in Merchandising and Service Establishments in Canada, 1936," 77 pp., afforded data as to the average weekly earnings of employees with numbers employed for three classes of establishments: independent retail stores, chain stores, and wholesale trade. The first report of this nature covered the year 1935 and a summary table of the figures was given in Report No. 20 of this series. Figures for motion picture theatres were given in the report for 1935 but not in that for 1936. The figures as to independent retail stores were chiefly from those which had an annual business of $20,000 or more in 1930 as shown in the census of 1931. This section included department stores, restaurants, gasoline filling stations, garages, as well as retail businesses of various kinds. The information on chain stores was secured from all companies operating four or more units in the same or similar lines of trade and included earnings of store managers, clerks, cashiers, delivery and any other store employees but not for head office staff, warehouse and transportation employees. For the section on wholesale trade information was secured from all the larger wholesale dealers and from a number of sales offices and distribution branches maintained by manufacturers.

In addition to the data as to the numbers of employees and average weekly earnings the report contained tables showing the percentages of employees in each kind of business by provinces whose weekly earnings fell within specified ranges: under $6, $6 to $6.99, etc. Part time employees were included in this analysis but not in the other tables. Earnings by quartile groups were also given.

The accompanying table shows the average weekly earnings and numbers of employees, male and female by kinds of business and by provinces. The figures as to each kind of business by provinces are not included.

APPENDIX E

WAGES AND HOURS OF LABOUR UNDER PROVINCIAL LEGISLATION AND ON FEDERAL GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS IN CANADA

Legislation providing for the regulation of wages and hours of labour has been enacted by various provinces in Canada with respect to: minimum wage rates for females to be set by government boards in all provinces except Prince Edward Island which is not extensively industrial; minimum wage rates for males to be set by government boards in British Columbia, Manitoba, Alberta, Ontario and Quebec, or under special regulations for certain industries such as forest operations in Quebec and New Brunswick; the extension by Order in Council of minimum rates of wages, maximum hours of labour and certain other working conditions in a collective labour agreement between employers and groups of workers to all engaged in the industry in the same district, in Quebec; the establishment, by Orders in Council, of minimum wage rates and maximum hours agreed upon at conferences of representatives of employers and employees convened by governmental authorities, in Ontario, Alberta, Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan.

The last report in this series contained a section on "Maximum Hours of Labour as Limited by Provincial Legislation." A special bulletin on the legal regulation of hours of labour in Canada is in course of preparation and is expected to be issued in a short time. Such information is, therefore, not included in the present report. Many of these provisions, however, are mentioned in this appendix, in connection with the tables and statements as to minimum wages, etc. The most important of the provisions not so shown are the eight hour day and forty-eight hour week law of British Columbia applicable to most of the industries except agriculture and domestic service, and the eight hour day legislation for underground miners in most of the provinces where mining is carried on.

Minimum Wage Rates on Federal Government Contracts

In accordance with a Resolution of the House of Commons in 1900, the Fair Wages Policy of the Federal Government has provided for the observance of rates of wages generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district where the work was performed or, in the absence of current rates, for fair and reasonable rates. This policy applied to building and construction work and to the manufacture of government supplies.

In 1922 the application of this policy by the various departments of the government was standardized under an Order in Council, setting forth the labour conditions to be inserted in contracts for building and construction and for the manufacture and supply of fittings for public buildings, harness, saddlery, clothing and other outfit for the military and naval forces, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, letter carriers, and other Government officers and employees; mail bags, letter boxes, and other postal stores.

In 1930, the Fair Wage and Eight Hour Day Act was passed, applicable to all contracts for construction, remodelling, repair or demolition of any Federal work. This statute provides for the observance of current rates of wages and requires also that wages shall in all cases be such as are fair and reasonable and that the working hours are not to exceed eight a day.

On December 31, 1934, the labour conditions previously applicable to contracts for the manufacture of various classes of Government supplies as listed above, were rescinded and new conditions substituted therefor. (LABOUR GAZETTE, January, 1935, page 24.)

The requirement for the payment of wages not less than current rates, or fair and reasonable rates if there are no current rates, is retained, but it is also provided that males and females under 18 years of age will be entitled to rates of wages not less than those provided for women and girls in the minimum wage scales of the respective provinces. In certain of the Maritime Provinces where no minimum wage legislation is in effect, the contractors are required to pay the males and females under 18 years of age wages not less than those provided for women and girls under the Minimum Wage Act of the Province of Nova Scotia.

It is also provided that in no event shall the wage rate for male workers 18 years of age and over be less than 30 cents per hour, and for female workers 18 years of age and over, 20 cents per hour, but in any cases where the Provincial Minimum Wage laws require the payment of higher wages than those set out above, such higher rates shall apply in the execution of Federal contract work. For instance for a 50 hour week on a Federal Government contract a male 18 years of age and over, whether experienced or inexperienced, must be paid not less than $15 and a female $10 even if the provincial minimum scale may provide $6, $7, $8, etc., but if the provincial minimum scale is in excess of $15 in the case of male and $10 in the case of female workers then the provincial scale must prevail.

*The Fair Wages and Hours of Labour Act,

During the 1935 session of Parliament the Fair Wages and Hours of Labour Act, 1935, was passed, to come into effect on May 1, 1936, repealing the Fair Wages and Eight Hour Day Act, 1930. The new statute provides for the forty-four hour week and for other labour conditions in work under federal government contracts for building and construction and on works towards which federal aid is granted by way of subsidy, loan, etc., as before, but extends the list of such works to include those carried out by any provincial and municipal authority if financial aid is given by the federal government "unless the grant or payment is by statutory authority or by agreement with the Government of Canada excepted." It is also provided that regulations may be made to require the furnishing of any necessary information to ensure the enforcement of the statute. Any contract may be exempted from the Act by Order in Council before being entered into.

Minimum Wages for Female Employees

Between 1918 and 1930 statutes providing for the establishment of minimum wage rates for females by boards or commissions had been passed in all of the provinces except Prince Edward Island, which is not to a great extent industrial, the dates being as follows: British Columbia and Manitoba, 1918; Quebec and Saskatchewan, 1919; Nova Scotia, Ontario and Alberta, 1920; New Brunswick, 1930. In Quebec the Act was not put into force or orders issued until 1926, in Nova Scotia not until 1930. The New Brunswick statute comes into force on proclamation and has not yet been proclaimed.

Under the New Brunswick Fair Wage Act, 1936 (amended in 1937), minimum wages may be set by the Fair Wage Board as referred to in the section on minimum wages for male employees. The Female Minimum Wage Act of Quebec was repealed in 1937, being replaced by the Fair Wage Act, which is applicable to male workers as well as female. Under this statute the orders as to minimum rates for females have been continued and extended to male workers. In 1937 the Minimum Wage Act of Ontario was amended to replace the Minimum Wage Board by an Industry and Labour Board and to provide for setting minimum wage rates for male employees.

The following tables give data as to minimum rates of wages for females under orders of the various provincial boards in effect at the end of 1937. The figures as to hours are those for which the minimum rates are payable under such orders, subject to certain modifications, or are the maximum hours under the minimum wage or other legislation, as explained in footnotes.

The more important of the rules for the application of the rates under the orders have been given in footnotes. For complete information it is necessary to refer to the orders as issued by the various provincial boards. These have been given in summary form in the LABOUR GAZETTE from time to time as issued. In some provinces these orders include regulations as to employment conditions, sanitary conditions, etc. The boards have power to fix lower rates for inexperienced workers, to issue licences for lower rates of pay for handicapped workers and to meet special conditions in the nature of emergencies.

Footnote to Table II—

* Minimum Wage Orders apply throughout the Province unless otherwise noted in this table. Since November, 1937, they apply to male as well as female workers. In allocating the workers on wage rates according to percentages of numbers employed, males and females are counted separately. Permits may be issued by the Fair Wage Board for lower wage rates for workers who are handicapped. A new Order, applicable to all industries except agriculture and private domestic service, was issued, to be effective from February 15, 1938, (Labour Gazette, January, 1938, page 38), but the effective date has been postponed. Wage rates for female workers are also included in certain agreements under the Workmen's Wages Act outlined under "Wages and Hours of Labour under Collective Agreements, etc."

† Hours worked less or more per week than those shown below must be paid at proportionate rates, except where noted. Any employee required to wait on the premises shall be paid for the time thus spent. Under the Industrial and Commercial Establishments Act, maximum hours per week in industrial establishments for females are 55 and in commercial establishments in cities or towns of over 10,000, 60 per week (except last two weeks of December) but permits to work up to 65 hours in cases of emergency may be granted by the inspector under this Act for not more than 6 weeks in a year.

Overtime, over 48 hours (or 54 in the latter stores) in the first three zones and over 54 hours in the fourth zone must be paid at time and one-half, except for employees whose weekly wage is over $15. Employees in the first three zones who are employed less than 40 hours per week may be considered as part time employees, in which case they are entitled to a bonus of 12½ per cent over their regular wage. Extra employees, that is those engaged exclusively on Fridays or Saturdays or occasionally any other two days in the week, must be paid 25 cents, 20 cents, 18 cents, 16 cents or 14 cents per hour respectively according to the five zones provided in this Order. * Minimum wage rates apply throughout the Province unless otherwise stated in the order. No male worker may be employed in a class of employment for which a minimum wage is fixed for women at less than that minimum wage. Special permits may be issued to handicapped workers or those over 60 years to work for lower wages. A new Minimum Wage Act came into effect in 1937, but the orders here noted had not been replaced in 1937. Minimum wage rates for female employees are also included in certain schedules under the Industrial Standards Act outlined under "Wages and Hours of Labour under Collective Agreements, etc."

† No young girl worker on reaching age of 18 years is to receive less than rate fixed for inexperienced adult.

‡ Minimum weekly rates are payable for these hours or for the usual number of hours per week normally worked in the establishment, if less than this number. No deduction below minimum wage for absence is to exceed value of the time lost. Overtime to be paid at proportionate rates. An employee required to wait on the premises to be paid for such time. Under Factory, Shop and Office Building Act, maximum hours for females are 60 per week, but in factories permits to work up to 12½ hours per day or 72½ hours per week in cases of emergency may be given by the factory inspector for not more than 36 days in the year.

(a) For indentured apprentices, no wage stipulated for first three months, the lowest rate here shown is for the second three months; after two years, experienced workers' rate to be paid.

(b) All beginners on piecework to be paid not less than the time work rates for beginners during first six months (first three months in laundries, etc.) For pieceworkers of more than six months' (three months' in laundries, etc.) experience, it is sufficient if at least 80 per cent earn the minimum rate.

(c) After one year, full rate for experienced worker to be paid.

(d) After 18 months, full rate for experienced worker to be paid.

(e) Lodging not to be charged at more than $2.00 per week and board at $5.00 per week in Toronto and at $1.50 and $4.50 in the rest of the province, except in the canning industry where not more than $1.50 for lodging and $4.50 for board may be charged throughout the province; single meals at not more than 25 cents.

(f) For piecework in the canning industry, it is sufficient if 60 per cent of the pieceworkers earn the minimum rate.

(g) All workers between the ages of 18 and 60 years.

(h) All workers under 18 or over 60 years of age.

(i) Not more than one-third of employees to be apprentices, except when staff is less than four.

(j) An employment of ten weeks or more in any period of six months to be deemed sufficient for that of six months in computing time of apprenticeship.

(k) After 3 years, full rate for experienced worker to be paid.

(l) After 2 years, full rate for experienced worker to be paid.

(m) The number of employees paid as inexperienced shall not exceed 40 per cent of the total female working force except where there are less than four employees (less than five employees in laundries, etc.)

(o) In custom or merchant tailoring establishments in Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, London and Windsor, a learner in this trade may be employed for three months with no minimum wage rate prescribed.

(q) Any office worker with a diploma from an accredited business college or commercial department of a high school to be paid experienced worker's rate.

(r) If employed a year or more in an office before reaching the age of 18 years, a worker to receive experienced worker's wage rate on reaching age of 18 years. If working less than a year when reaching age of 18 years, experienced worker's rate to be paid as soon thereafter as the year's experience has been completed.

From October 1, 1937, separate minimum wage orders were made effective for male workers as noted on page 139.

† The minimum weekly wage rates are payable "for a week of six days". Except for employment in theatres, etc., in case of employment by the hour or by the day for any period less than six consecutive days in a calendar week, a minimum of 30 cents per hour must be paid, "and in any such case where the consecutive number of hours during which such employee is employed is not more than four hours, that employee shall be paid for four hours at a rate of 30 cents per hour" even if employed for less than four hours.

‡ Maximum hours ordinarily permitted under the Hours of Work Act (1936). Payment for overtime may be at the rate of wages ordinarily payable if such overtime does not exceed one hour in any one day and does not exceed the maximum weekly hours permitted. Payment for overtime is to be at one and one half times the rate of wages ordinarily payable if the total amount of overtime exceeds one hour in any one day or exceeds the maximum weekly hours ordinarily permitted under the Hours of Work Act.

§ Not more than 25 per cent of the total female staff may be apprentices.

(a) After 18 months, minimum wage for experienced worker is to be paid.

(b) After the first month, for which no minimum rate is set, 11 months may be worked at the apprentice scale.

(c) In some cases, minimum rate for experienced worker is to be paid after 9 months' apprenticeship and in other cases after one year's apprenticeship.

(d) After one year's apprenticeship, minimum rate for experienced worker is to be paid.

(e) If employed by the hour or day or for any period less than six consecutive days in a week, the minimum rate is 50 cents per hour, and if the period is for less than two consecutive hours payment must be made for at least two hours.

(f) Where board is furnished to an employee, not more than $5.00 for a full week or 75 cents per day may be charged.

(g) After 6 months, minimum wage for experienced worker is to be paid.

‡ Special licences may be granted by the Board for employment of adult learners at wage rates fixed in the licences but the number of such licensed employees not to exceed one-seventh of the total number of female employees in the establishment, except if less than seven employees: when one adult learner may be allowed. The aggregate number of female workers with special licences and employees under 18 may not, however, exceed 35 per cent of the total number of female workers in the establishment.

(a) After one year, minimum rate for experienced worker to be paid.

(b) Workers are to be paid a minimum of 30 cents per hour up to 10 hours in a day, 45 cents for hours over 10 and up to 12, and 60 cents for any hours in excess of 12, except that 10 per cent of employees may be paid lower rates, viz., 25 cents, 37½ cents and 50 cents respectively. (c) For some classes of manufacturing the scale for inexperienced employees is from $8 to $12 covering a period of 6 months, in other classes also from $8 to $12 but covering a period of one year and in a third class which includes printing and bookbinding, dressmaking, tailoring, manufacture of jewellery, furs, leather goods, boots and shoes, hand-made millinery, and other products the scale is from $7 to $13 and covers a period of 18 months.

Employees of any age employed temporarily between December 1 and December 31, 1937, were to be paid a minimum of $12.75 per week for a week of 40 hours or more or 35 cents per hour if working less than 40 hours per week.

(h) After one year, minimum rate for experienced worker to be paid.

Minimum Wage Rates for Male Employees

The following statements afford information as to rates of wages and hours of labour established under provincial legislation as to minimum wage standards for male workers.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

The provincial legislature in 1936 amended the Charlottetown Incorporation Act to permit the Charlottetown City Council to pass a by-law setting a minimum wage of 35 cents per hour for labourers and workmen for any work done in the city by or under a contractor or for similar work, except when managed or directed by the owner of the property on which such work was being done. A city by-law giving effect to this minimum wage law was passed in May, 1936.

NEW BRUNSWICK

New Brunswick Forest Operations Act

Under the New Brunswick Forest Operations Act, 1934, a Forest Operations Commission was constituted with powers to make final decisions in labour disputes, subject to the approval of the Minister of Lands and Mines, and to fix minimum wage scales for the industry. The Act does not apply to work on Christmas trees or firewood operations. The Act permits the employment of men inexperienced or physically unfit for a full day's work at wages below the minimum rates established, if agreements approved by the Commission are signed by the employers and the men concerned.

From March 20, 1937, the Commission established, for stream driving, an average rate of wages of $3 per day and board or its equivalent in the case of piece work, but the wages paid to cooks were not to be included in determining the average rate. Foremen, book-keepers and clerks are not within the scope of the Act and their wages are not considered in determining the average. For booming and sorting, the minimum rate is 28 cents per hour without board, provided however, that where board is furnished by the employer, not more than 50 cents per day may be charged the employee.

Effective May 1, 1937, for cutting, yarding and hauling, the average wage rate paid by any employer to his employees must be at least $40 per month and board net, and the minimum rate for each employee $34 per month and board net. Wages paid to cooks and truck drivers and the amounts paid to employees for piece work are not to be included in determining the average wage.

Fair Wage Act

The Fair Wage Act, 1936, which provided that the Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities could establish fair rates of wages and the maximum hours for which such wages should be paid in any trade, was amended in 1937 to provide for a Fair Wage Board to administer the Act. The Board has established minimum wages and maximum hours for a number of individual establishments but no orders of general application in any trade have been made.

QUEBEC

Fair Wage Act

Under the Women's Minimum Wage Act, it was provided that no male employee might be employed at work which, in the opinion of the Minimum Wage Commission, is ordinarily and by custom performed by women, at a lower wage than that fixed by the Commission for women at such work. On September 1, 1937, the Fair Wage Act came into effect, repealing the Women's Minimum Wage Act but providing that all orders in force under that Act should be continued in force until amended or replaced by orders under the new statute. Such minimum wage orders are noted above under "Minimum Wage Rates for Female Employees in Quebec." The first order of the Fair Wage Board in October continued existing orders of the Women's Minimum Wage Board in effect until changed. A later order provided that from November 20, these minimum wage rates should be payable to male wage-earners even when not replacing female workers. The minimum wage rates shown above for female workers in Quebec are, therefore, applicable to all male employees in the industries so covered.

Wages in Forest Operations

Under the Act to Assure Reasonable Wages for Workmen engaged in Forest Operations, 1937, an order in council, approved July 3, 1937, makes it obligatory on all employers engaged in forest operations except on private lands belonging to farmers or settlers to pay to all workers a minimum wage of $45 per

(p) The weekly rates for this industry are for a week of 40 hours or more. Hourly rates are set for those working less than 40 hours in a week, these rates being 37½ cents with a minimum of $1.50 in any one day for experienced workers, from 27 cents to 37½ cents with a minimum of $1.25 in any one day for inexperienced workers and for young girls under 18 years. Time spent waiting on call for employment as required by the employer must be paid for.

(q) Weekly rates are for a week of 37½ hours or more. Hourly rates for those working less than 37½ hours are: 40 cents per hour for experienced workers, 30 to 37½ cents for inexperienced workers. A minimum of 4 hours' pay in any one day must be paid to such part time workers.

(r) In an emergency, hours may be increased to 52 hours a week, with time and one-half being paid for all work over 48 hours. In summer resorts, between June 15 and September 15, 10 hours per day, 54 hours per week is permitted, with time and one-half for all work over 48 hours in any one week.

month of 26 days, with the exception of inexperienced youths from 18 to 20 years of age, incapacitated persons and men of 60 years or over for whom the minimum is $30 per month of 26 days. It is, however, provided that in no case may the number of such men in a shanty paid less than $45 per month exceed 10 per cent of the total number of workers. The employment of any person under 18 years is prohibited. In addition to the above wage rates, board and suitable lodging must be supplied free of charge to the worker. For those on piece work, minimum prices for such work are set and they may be charged 60 cents per day for board and lodging, but all piece workers must receive at least $45 per month of 26 days in addition to board and lodging. No deduction may be made from wages for medical assistance, cots, blankets, etc., and prices for goods sold to workers are subject to regulation. Regular hours are limited to 60 per week, with time and one-quarter for overtime and time and one-half for indispensable work on Sundays except for necessary work by cooks, cookees, stablemen and carters.

ONTARIO

Minimum Wage Act

Under the Minimum Wage Act in effect until 1937, it was provided that wherever, as determined by the Board, any male employee replaces any female employee in any class of employment for which a minimum wage is established, such male employee must be paid at least such minimum rate. (The minimum rates established for female employees are shown above in the table of "Minimum Wage Rates for Female Employees in Ontario.")

The Minimum Wage Act, 1937, repeals the previous Act and applies to all wage-earners in any business, trade or occupation except farm workers and domestic servants, the Act to be administered by an Industry and Labour Board. No orders under the new Act were issued in 1937. The first order under this Act is that covering the cotton and wool textile industry effective from March 1, 1938. The orders under the previous Act, noted above under "Minimum Wage Rates for Female Employees in Ontario" therefore remain in effect, applying to female workers and to male workers when replacing females except after March 1, 1938, in the cotton and woolen industries.

Commercial Vehicles

The Public Commercial Vehicle Act, 1934, gives to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council power to fix minimum rates of pay for drivers of vehicles transporting goods. No rates have been fixed under this authority.

MANITOBA

Minimum Wage Act

Prior to 1931, the Minimum Wage Act applied to female workers in cities only. By amendments, the scope of the Act has been extended to include all workers, male and female, in any or all offices, vocations, pursuits, trades, industries, businesses or callings. The Minimum Wage Board is empowered to recommend, and the Lieutenant Governor in Council to declare that any Order of the Minimum Wage Board or that the provisions of the Act apply to any or all industries or trades and to any other part of the Province or to the whole Province. The Act provides that when minimum wages are established for employees in any class of industry, no person of the age of 18 years or over shall be permitted to work as an employee in the industry at a rate less than 25 cents per hour except in cases where the Board has passed specific regulations providing for a different rate. The industries in which minimum rates have been established are shown in the table on a previous page under "Minimum Wage Rates for Female Employees".

Orders of the Minimum Wage Board governing manufacturing and general occupations, departmental stores and mail order houses, retail and wholesale stores and general employees apply to both male and female employees and are shown in the above mentioned table. Certain other Orders include separate wage scales for male workers or apply exclusively to male workers and these are noted below:

In the Order governing employment in hotels, restaurants, clubs, victualling houses and refreshment stands throughout the Province: in the area within the Greater Winnipeg Water District and the City of Brandon at any time, and in the City of Portage la Prairie from May to October inclusive, and in any summer resort from June to September inclusive, for male employees 18 years or over, the minimum is $12 per week or 25 cents per hour; for male employees under 18 years, $8 during the first six month period of employment in the occupation, $9 during the second six month period and $10 until such employee reaches the age of 18 years; and for bell boys of any age $8 per week; in the City of Portage la Prairie during the remainder of the year $10 per week or 21 cents per hour for male employees 18 years or over; in any other part of the Province, for male employees of 18 years and over the minimum is $10 per week or 21 cents per hour, except in places with a population of less than 1,000 where the minimum rates may be reduced by 10 per cent from November to April inclusive. Hours are limited to 10 per day, 48 per week, with one day or two half days off in the week, except for cooks and male employees over 18 years of age in hotels, for whom time worked over 48 hours must be paid for at the hourly rate specified. In hotels of 100 rooms or more, hours of such employees may not exceed 54 in a week.

The Order relating to manufacturing and general industries, as noted under "Minimum Wages for Female Employees," governs all workers in these industries throughout the Province. A separate Order is, however, in effect for boys under 18 years in the manufacturing industries in Greater Winnipeg and Brandon, which includes the work of boys in garages and filling stations, providing for the minimum wage rates of $8 per week for the first six months of employment, $9 for the second six months and $10 after one year's employment. Hours are limited to 9 per day, 48 per week. Each boy must receive one-half day off each week.

Another Minimum Wage Board Order governs the employment in cities of men performing work generally done by boys. Work generally performed by boys is stated to be delivering telegrams or other messages, hand bills or advertising matter, delivering parcels on foot or on bicycle, office boys, shining shoes, delivering newspapers, setting up bowling alley pins, and other work of a similar nature when ruled as properly coming under this Order by an Inspector of the Bureau of Labour and when employers hold a certificate by said inspector. If such work is performed by a man over 18 years of age he shall be paid at the established rate for adult workers unless such man was in the employer's service in any such occupation on March 1, 1935, or after that date reaches the age of 18 years while in the employer's service in any such occupation, in either of which cases he may be retained by the same employer until an opportunity for promotion occurs and be paid at not less than the established rate for boys for a 48 hour week, that is $8 per week during the first six months of employment, $9 during the second six months and $10 after one year's employment.

The Order also provides that for workers employed on a part-time or piece work basis, all time in which the employee is required to be available for duty must be paid for, and that such employees must be paid for at least four consecutive hours any day they are required to report for duty.

This same Order provides that duly indentured male apprentices may be paid at the wage rates stipulated in the indenture rather than the wage rates in the Minimum Wage Board Order, providing the Board approves such indenture and provided the wage rates are not less than the rates established in the industry for persons under 18 years.

Highway Traffic Act

A regulation made by the Municipal and Public Utility Board constituted under this Act provides for a minimum wage rate for drivers of public service vehicles certificated for passenger transportation of $20 per week for a 6-day week for drivers employed by the week, or $80 per month for drivers hired by the month; those employed otherwise than by the month or week to be paid at least at the same rate. If wages are proposed to be paid on any other basis than those provided for, the scale must be approved by the Board. Hours are limited to nine per day for driving, 12 per day in any capacity, with a six-day week.

Taxicab Act

This Act applies only to taxicabs in Greater Winnipeg. It limits hours on duty to 12 a day on not more than 6 days a week. A minimum wage of $17.50 per week was fixed for drivers employed by the week from February 15, 1937. For a driver employed otherwise than by the week, a minimum of $1.60 per day must be paid for each day he is on duty. If he is on duty for more than four hours on any one day, he must be paid at least $1.60 and, in addition, not less than 40 cents an hour for each hour in excess of four. From May 1, 1937, it was stipulated that a driver employed by the year or month must be paid a wage equal to what he would receive if paid by the week; that where he is hired by the week, he must be paid the prescribed minimum for the week whether he has four, five or six days of work, unless he is absent through illness or by arrangement.

Fair Wage Schedule for Public and Certain Private Construction Works in Manitoba

Under the Fair Wage Act, the Minister of Public Works (Manitoba) approved a schedule, effective June 1, 1937, and amended September 1, 1937, establishing minimum wage rates and maximum working hours for workers employed on certain public and private works. "Public work" includes work, authorized by the Minister of Public Works for which a contract or contracts have been made between the Minister and an employer, consisting of construction, including remodelling, demolition or repairing or painting of buildings in Manitoba and highway, road, bridge or drainage construction outside the Greater Winnipeg Water District. "Private work" means the building, construction, remodelling, demolition or repairing of a building or construction work for which a contract or contracts have been made exceeding $100 within the Greater Winnipeg Water District or any city or town of a population over 2,000 or any other part of the Province to which the provisions of the Act are extended by the Lieutenant Governor in Council. The term does not include work which is done on property by or under the immediate direction and control of the owner, tenant or occupant, if no more than three men are employed in addition to the regular maintenance staff, and if such work is not undertaken with a view to the sale or rental of the property. Neither does it include work which is done by a maintenance man, or men, employed by the month. The accompanying tables show the minimum wage rates so established.

SASKATCHEWAN

Minimum Wage Act

By Order in Council the Minimum Wage Act has been extended to male as well as female employees. The minimum wage rates effective thereunder are shown on a previous page in Table V—Minimum Wage Rates for Female Employees in Saskatchewan.

The Coal Mining Industry Act, 1935, empowers the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to establish standards as to hours of labour and wages of persons employed in the industry, but no such regulations have been made. Hours are limited to eight in a day by the Coal Miners' Safety and Welfare Act as amended in 1932, except when otherwise agreed between employer and employee.

The Public Service Vehicles Act grants the Highway Traffic Board the power to regulate the wages and hours of drivers of public service and commercial vehicles. No regulations under this Act have been issued.

ALBERTA

Male Minimum Wage Act

The Male Minimum Wage Act, 1936, applies to all male persons engaged in any industry or business except farm labour and domestic service and is administered by the Board of Industrial Relations appointed under the Hours of Work Act, which Board is authorized to fix minimum wage rates, hours of labour, overtime pay, etc.

Until the clause was repealed in 1937, the Factories Act, 1926, provided that wherever a minimum wage had been fixed for female workers employed in factories, office buildings, shops, hotels and restaurants, no male worker (except indentured apprentices) could be employed in such class of employment at a lower wage. By Order in Council of May 17, 1937, under the Male Minimum Wage Act similar provision was made for all occupations under the Act and it was stipulated further that any overtime permitted under The Hours of Work Act should be paid for at the rate of time and one-half. The Order in Council was to remain in effect only until the Board made an order fixing a minimum wage for male workers.

From October 1, 1937, an Order was made setting minimum wage rates for all adult male employees within the scope of the Act except: those employed in industries working under agreements established under the Industrial Standards Act; casual, seasonal or temporary work for employers not engaged in the industry, business, trade or occupation for which such labour is hired; and except such employees as might from time to time be declared exempted by the Board.

An order effective October 5 and amended in December made special provision as to logging and wood-working in rural districts and as to fire-fighting. The accompanying table gives the minimum rates fixed under these orders.

Public Service Vehicles Act

Under the Public Service Vehicles Act, 1936, an order of the Highway Traffic Board provided that from December 15, 1936, in the cities of Edmonton and Calgary, a driver of a taxicab or livery must be paid a minimum of $15 per week for a week of six days, or if employed otherwise than by the week, must be paid at not less than at the same rate. When taxi drivers in Edmonton were brought under an Order in Council under the Industrial Standards Act (page 156), this order of the Highway Traffic Board was amended August 4, 1937, so as to apply to Calgary only.

On January 19, 1938, the minimum hourly wage-rates for these workers were rescinded and a minimum monthly rate of $30, plus board and lodging, to all employees whether paid by the time or by the piece was established. Forest and prairie fire fighting are not mentioned in the new order.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Minimum Wage Acts

The Female Minimum Wage Act of 1934 provides that where a minimum wage has been fixed for employees in any industry, business, trade or occupation, no male person over 18 years of age may be employed in work usually done by female employees at less than the minimum wage fixed for such female employees. Similarly where a rate has been fixed for female employees under 18 years of age, no male employee under 18 years may be employed at a lower wage. The table showing minimum rates for female employees in British Columbia is given above.

Under the Male Minimum Wage Act of 1934 (LABOUR GAZETTE, June, 1934, page 510; June, 1935, page 523; December, 1936, page 1129), minimum rates of wages in various industries and occupations have been established by the Board of Industrial Relations. This Act applies to all employees and their employers in any industry, business, trade or occupation except farm labourers and domestic servants. In the case of handicapped, part-time and apprenticed employees, the Board may authorize the payment of a wage less than the fixed minimum rate, and also may limit the number of such employees to whom wages lower than the minimum may be paid. The following table shows rates in effect under regulations made under the Male Minimum Wage Act:—

Wages and Hours of Labour Under Collective Agreements and Schedules of Wages and Hours Made Obligatory by Orders in Council in Certain Provinces

In certain provinces, legislation provides that the wage rates and hours of labour agreed upon by representatives of employers and workers in a trade or industry for a locality, district or the whole province may be made obligatory on all employers and employees concerned by Order in Council on the recommendation of the Minister in charge of the administration of labour legislation. Such rates of wages and hours of labour are noted below and are applicable to both male and female workers unless otherwise stated.

NOVA SCOTIA

Industrial Standards Act of Nova Scotia

This Act, which was summarized in the LABOUR GAZETTE, July, 1936, page 604 with amendments in LABOUR GAZETTE, August, 1937, page 861 is similar to the Industrial Standards Act of Ontario as noted below. It is, however, restricted to the building and construction industry in Halifax and Dartmouth, excluding government and municipal employees and any employee performing temporary work the total amount of which does not exceed $25.

Four schedules were made binding by Orders in Council under this Act, September 1, 1936, (LABOUR GAZETTE, September, 1936), and were still effective at the end of the year 1937. The wage rates and hours so in effect are as follows:

| — | Minimum hourly wage rate | Hours per week |
|--------------------------------|--------------------------|----------------|
| | $ | |
| Bricklayers..... | .97½ | 44 |
| Carpenters..... | .60 | 44 |
| Electrical workers..... | .80 | 44 |

Provision is made in all schedules for extra pay for overtime.

QUEBEC

Workmen's Wages Act

The text of this Act, which replaces the Collective Labour Agreements Extension Act, was summarized in the LABOUR GAZETTE, July, 1937, page 745. Under this Act any party to a collective agreement made between the representatives of an association of employees and the representatives of an association of employers or one or more employers may apply to the Lieutenant Governor in Council through the provincial Minister of Labour to have those terms of such agreement which govern wages, hours of labour, apprenticeship, classification of operations, determination of classes of employers and employees and all such provisions as the Lieutenant Governor in Council may deem in conformity with the spirit of the Act, made obligatory on all employers and employees in the trade, industry, commerce or occupation within the district determined in the agreement. Notice of such application is published, and thirty days is then allowed for filing of objections and the Minister may hold an inquiry. After this period if the Minister considers that the terms of the agreement "have acquired a preponderant significance and importance" and that it is advisable, with due regard to economic conditions, an Order in Council may be passed granting the application, and making the provisions of the agreement obligatory from the date of publication of the Order in Council in the Quebec Official Gazette. The agreement may be amended through the same procedure. The agreements under this Act are enforced within the industry itself by joint committees composed of representatives of both employers and employees. Proceedings under the Collective Labour Agreements Extension Act were summarized in the LABOUR GAZETTE from June, 1934, to July, 1937; proceedings under the Workmen's Wages Act in the issues beginning July, 1937.

The wages and hours in effect under agreements so made obligatory in various industries in the whole or part of the Province are noted below.

BUILDING TRADES.—The agreements in the building trades in various sections of the province, which have been made obligatory by Orders in Council, have been summarized in the LABOUR GAZETTE during 1934, 1935, 1936 and 1937. In most cases the agreements cover specified sections of the province, each comprising several counties as well as the principal cities and towns. With the exception of six rural counties in or adjoining the Gaspé Peninsula and four in the Eastern Township section, the whole province is now covered by building trades agreements. The minimum wage rates for the principal trades, which were in effect at the end of the year 1937 under Orders in Council are shown in the accompanying table.

The agreements in many cases also specify minimum weekly rates, lower than the standard and hourly rates, for workmen permanently employed on maintenance work for religious, charitable or educational institutions, hotels, office buildings and manufacturing or industrial establishments. These weekly rates are not shown in the table. Minimum wage rates for apprentices which are set in many of the agreements are also omitted from this table.

The Industrial Standards Act

The Industrial Standards Act of Ontario, the text of which was printed in the LABOUR GAZETTE, June, 1935, page 534, with amendments in the issue of May, 1936, page 410, and May, 1937, page 505, provides that the Minister of Labour for Ontario may, upon petition of representatives of employees or employers in any industry, convene or authorize an officer to convene a conference or series of conferences of employees and employers in the industry, in any zone or zones to investigate the conditions of labour and practices in such industry and to negotiate standard rates of wages and hours of labour. The employees and employers in attendance may formulate and agree upon a schedule of wages and hours of labour for all or any class of employees in such industry or district. If, in the opinion of the Minister, a schedule of wages and hours for any industry is agreed upon in writing by a proper and sufficient representation of employees and of employers, he may approve of it, and upon his recommendation, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may declare such schedule to be in force "during pleasure" or for the period, not exceeding twelve months, stipulated in the schedule, and thereupon such schedule is binding upon every employee or employer in such industry in the whole or any part of the Province designated by the Minister and is published in The Ontario Gazette. The Industry and Labour Board has authority to enforce the provisions of the Act and of the regulations and schedules. The following is a summary of the wage rates in effect under these Orders in Council at the end of the year 1937. Certain other schedules, which were shown in last year's report (No. 20), were in effect during part of 1937 but had expired before the end of the year and were not renewed. They are not therefore shown this year.

LOGGING INDUSTRY.—Schedules of wages for this industry were made effective by Orders in Council in four districts in 1937, namely the Massey Zone (vicinity of Sudbury), Timmins Zone, Port Arthur Zone and the Rainy River Zone (LABOUR GAZETTE, June and December, 1937, and January, 1938). For those working on a time rate basis, the minimum monthly rate for cookees and kitchen staff is $40 per month for the Massey, Timmins and Port Arthur zones and $42.50 for the Rainy River zone; for general bushmen the minimum is $42.50 and for loaders $45, in all four zones; the minimum rates for teamsters are $50 to $55 in all four zones; for river drivers, the rate is $2.60 per day except in the Rainy River zone where it is $3. Free board and lodging must be provided by employers to all workers employed on the time rate basis. For those employed on piece rates, the prices are set in all zones and the maximum amount which the employers may charge each employee working on piecework for his board is 85 cents per day in the Timmins, Port Arthur and Rainy River zones and 75 cents in the Massey zone.

BAKING INDUSTRY.—One schedule is in effect (LABOUR GAZETTE, January, 1938), which provides for the city of Ottawa and immediately adjacent area a 56 hour week, with the following minimum weekly rates: $23 for cake makers, doughmakers, machine operators, bench hands and ovenmen; $20 for salesmen, drivers and checkers, $14 to $20 for helpers.

SASKATCHEWAN

Industrial Standards Act

This Act is similar to the Industrial Standards Act of Ontario which is noted above. The Saskatchewan Act was summarized in the LABOUR GAZETTE, June, 1937, page 635. The following schedules have been made binding under this Act:—

SIGN PAINTING, MOOSE JAW.—A schedule for sign painters at Moose Jaw (LABOUR GAZETTE, January, 1938), provides for a 44 hour week and a minimum wage for experienced sign painters of 65 cents per hour or 42 per cent of the amount taken in at the job prices specified in the agreement, whichever is greater; sign shop helpers to be paid a minimum wage of 40 cents per hour.

SHOEMAKING AND REPAIRING, REGINA.—For the city of Regina a schedule in effect (LABOUR GAZETTE, November, 1937), provides for a 52 hour week with a minimum wage of $16 per week or payment according to a specified minimum scale of piece work, whichever is greater; apprentices from $8 during first six months to $13.50 during second year.

BARBERS AND HAIRDRESSERS.—Schedules governing barbers in four cities and beauty parlours employees in three cities were made binding during 1937. In all cases the minimum weekly wage is either the stated minimum rate or a percentage of the proceeds taken in by the barber or beauty parlour employees, whichever is greater. Minimum wages for barbers: at Moose Jaw either $15.70 for a 57 hour week or 60 per cent of proceeds; at Regina, either $16 per week or 60 per cent of proceeds; at Weyburn, either $16 per week or 65 per cent of proceeds; at Swift Current either $15.70 for a 57 hour week or payment by stipulated piece rates. ALBERTA

This Act is similar to the Industrial Standards Act of Ontario which is noted above. The text of the Act was published in the LABOUR GAZETTE, June, 1935, page 534, with amendments noted in the issues of June, 1936, page 501 and June, 1937, page 640. The following notes give information as to schedules of wages and hours in effect at the end of 1937. Certain other schedules were effective in 1936 and part of 1937, but expired before the end of the year and were not renewed. These were, therefore, shown in last year's report (No. 20) but are omitted here.

BAKING TRADE, EDMONTON AND CALGARY.—Schedules were in effect in Edmonton and Calgary at the end of the year (LABOUR GAZETTE, June and December, 1937). At Edmonton, the minimum weekly wage is: for doughmen, ovenmen and bench hands $23; helpers, shippers and packers $17; wrappers $12.50; apprentices from $8 for first three months to $16 for third year; salesmen $16.50 for first three months' experience, $21 thereafter; a 54 hour week for all outside work. At Calgary, the minimum rates are: doughmen, ovenmen and benchhands $23, helpers $17, apprentices from $8 for first three months to $15 for third year. A 54 hour week is also in effect in Calgary.

CREOSOTING, CALGARY.—At Calgary a schedule is in effect (LABOUR GAZETTE, September, 1937) establishing a regular week of 48 hours in creosoting plants, except for checkers, foremen and watchmen who may work a 54 hour week. Minimum wage rates are set on a piece rate scale for stacking and loading ties, and a minimum of 40 cents per hour for all hourly workers.

TAXI DRIVING, EDMONTON.—A schedule is in effect at Edmonton (LABOUR GAZETTE, July, 1937), setting a maximum of a 6 day week, 12 hours per day to be worked consecutively except for a one hour rest period. Minimum wage rates are $12.50 per week guaranteed plus 25 per cent commission on all proceeds over $50, from April 1 to September 30; $15 per week plus 25 per cent commission on all proceeds over $60, between October 1 and March 31.

BUILDING TRADES.—Two building trades are affected by schedules in Calgary and two in Edmonton as shown in the accompanying table.

THE LABOUR GAZETTE

Since its inception the LABOUR GAZETTE has maintained a continuous record of industrial, social and economic conditions in Canada as reflected in legislation, employment and unemployment, price trends, labour disputes, industrial relations programs, conventions and recommendations of labour bodies, etc.

One of the particular functions of the department is the promotion of industrial harmony, and prominence is therefore given in the LABOUR GAZETTE to proceedings under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act and the Conciliation and Labour Act.

Complete information is also given with respect to proceedings under other measures administered by the department, including the Employment Offices Co-ordination Act, the Combines Investigation Act, the Technical Education Act, the Government Annuities Act, the Relief Acts, the Fair Wages and Eight Hour Day Act, etc.

Included in the statistical information published is a monthly analysis of prices, wholesale and retail, in Canada, indicating trends in the cost of living, the prices of staple articles, and index numbers of price movements over a series of years.

WAGES AND HOURS OF LABOUR IN CANADA

1929, 1937 and 1938*

THE present bulletin, the twenty-second in the series on Wages and Hours of Labour, contains data for the years 1929, 1937 and 1938, but the tables on building, printing, metal trades and electric street railways give figures for 1920, 1926, and 1930 to 1938, while the table on steam railways is for the years 1920 to 1938, inclusive. In the appendices information is given as to minimum wage rates under provincial legislation, wages and hours of labour under collective agreements and schedules of wages and hours made obligatory by orders in council in certain provinces, and also as to the federal government fair wage policy. There are also tables giving wages in agriculture in 1937 and certain previous years, average earnings of steam railway employees in recent years with numbers employed in 1937, average earnings of coal miners with numbers employed and days worked from 1921 to 1937, and also average earnings of employees in merchandising and service establishments in 1937.

The table of index numbers of rates of wages contains figures showing changes in a number of occupational groups, from 1901 to 1938, and for certain other groups from 1911 to 1938, the base year being 1913. Index numbers for other groups have not been calculated as figures back to 1913 have not been compiled and published.

Changes in Wages

The recovery in wages, which first appeared in logging and sawmilling and in common factory labour in 1934 and extended to all groups in 1935, continued during 1936, 1937 and 1938.

The increases averaged over 4 per cent in logging and sawmilling, in coal mining and on steam railways; 3 per cent in miscellaneous factory trades; 2 per cent for common factory labour and building trades; over one per cent for metal and printing trades and electric railway employees. The average increase for all groups (weighted according to the approximate number of employees) was 4 per cent. In manufacturing industries the greatest increase was in silk factories, 10 per cent, but wage rates advanced over 5 per cent in woollen mills, pulp and paper mills, in sheet metal, shipbuilding, and boot and shoe industries. Increases of over 4 per cent occurred in establishments producing knitted goods, shirts, ready-made clothing, furniture, tobacco and cigarettes. In automobile and auto parts plants, and in electric, radio and rubber factories the increases averaged about

* The first report in this series was issued as a supplement to the LABOUR GAZETTE for March, 1921, and contained figures as to wages and hours of labour for certain trades in various cities in Canada from 1901 to 1920, with index numbers by groups based on wages in 1913 as 100. It also contained samples of wage rates for common labour in factories, miscellaneous factory trades in a small number of industries, and wages in lumbering from 1911 to 1920, with index numbers. Subsequent reports, in most cases issued as supplements to the LABOUR GAZETTE for January each year, brought these figures down to date with extensions from time to time to include additional industries and classes of labour.

The present report includes data as to wages and hours on steamships on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence river, a transportation industry first covered in Report No. 21, with data for 1929, 1936 and 1937.

Certain of these reports, however, contained special features. Report No. 5 (1923) dealt with Hours of Labour in Canada and Other Countries. Report No. 3 (January, 1922) included an appendix with statistics of wages and hours in coal mining in Canada from 1900 to 1921 with index numbers for the three principal districts. Report No. 7 (January, 1925) included an appendix with figures for agriculture from 1914 to 1923. Report No. 11 (January, 1928) contained an appendix on wages of employees of steam railways, considerably increasing the information for the years since 1917 with a more extensive record from 1901 to 1927 and also a new series of index numbers. Each report from No. 7 (January, 1925), to No. 14 (January, 1931), contained data not only for the previous year but back in 1920, except that figures for 1922, 1923 and 1924, the years of least change, were omitted from some of the tables owing to lack of space. Report No. 15, issued in January, 1932, contained data for the years 1926, 1930 and 1931, with figures for 1920 also in some cases.

Report No. 16, issued in January, 1933, afforded figures for 1930, 1931 and 1932 with figures for 1920 and 1926 also in some tables. Subsequent reports in each case have included figures for the calendar year just ended, for the preceding year and for 1929.

In Report No. 15 (January, 1932) the number of cities for which data were given in Table I as to building trades and electric railways was increased to approximately forty, and in the case of printing trades to fifteen, and these cities have since been covered in subsequent reports. Previously this table covered only thirteen cities, except that data for building trades in Windsor, Ont., were included, beginning with the report for 1928. Sheet metal workers employed in building and construction have been included with building trades since 1927, while sheet metal workers in factories have been included in the table on manufacturing industries. The section of the table on metal trades previously given was omitted from Reports Nos. 15 and 16 for 1931 and 1932 but figures for these trades appeared in the tables of sample rates of wages and hours in the sections of Table X on foundries and machine shops and other metal manufacturing industries. This section of Table No. 1 was, however, included in Report No. 17 with figures for 1920, 1926 and 1930 to 1933 and has been continued in subsequent reports. As in previous reports figures on wages for the metal trades in mines and on railways appear in the tables on those industries.

The appendix on wages and hours under provincial minimum wage legislation, included in recent years beginning with Report No. 12, issued in January, 1929, was enlarged in Report No. 18, January, 1936, and in subsequent reports, to include also data as to wage rates in certain collective labour agreements enforceable under legislation in several of the provinces. Report No. 20, January, 1937, contained a section on hours of labour under provincial legislation.

3 per cent. In most of the other manufacturing industries the increases averaged 2 per cent.

In the industries for which index numbers have not been calculated the most important changes were increases averaging 5 per cent in metal mining in 1937, and increases of five to fifteen dollars per month in 1937 and 1938 for steamship employees.

For previous years it will be seen from the table of index numbers that by 1920 wages had reached levels about 100 per cent higher than in 1913, in some groups the increase being over one hundred per cent while for building and printing trades the increases were appreciably less, being only about 80 per cent. After 1920

all groups showed some decreases, although printing trades and coal mining reached the peak in 1921 instead of 1920, declining somewhat thereafter. The decreases in coal mining in 1925 were comparatively steep and tended to reduce the average for the six groups averaged for the period back in 1901. From 1925 to 1930 the movement was upward in each group.

In 1930 the index numbers for most of the groups were slightly higher but that for lumbering declined slightly. In 1931 all groups were downward except printing trades and coal mining. In 1932 and 1933 all groups were down, the greatest decreases being in lumbering and building trades.

(b) Five trades from 1901 to 1926, four for 1927 to 1938.

(c) Two trades from 1901 to 1920, four for 1921 and 1922, six from 1923 to 1938.

(d) Two classes from 1901 to 1920, five classes 1921 to 1938.

(e) Twenty-three classes.

(g) The number of samples (and industries) increased from time to time since 1920; machine operators, helpers, etc., also included.

In 1934 lumbering showed substantial increases, factory labour also advanced appreciably and coal mining slightly while the other groups were lower. In 1935 all groups were appreciably higher and the upward movement continued during 1936, 1937, and 1938.

The weighted index number (with wage rates in 1913 as 100) for all groups in 1938 at 199.4 was higher than in 1929 and in 1930 at 196.0 and 197.1 respectively, but lower than in 1920 at 207.7.

Building Trades

In the building trades up to 1919 there were smaller increases than in any of the other groups, but in 1920 there were considerable increases. In 1921 decreases of 10 cents per hour were general and in 1922 decreases of 5 cents per hour were numerous. In 1923, 1924 and 1925, while there were upward movements in the average, it was due to increases in particular trades and in certain cities, and not to a general upward movement for most of the trades and localities. From 1926 to 1930, the upward movement was somewhat more general. During 1931 there were numerous decreases, in some localities the reduction being general while in others it was confined to certain trades. During 1932 and 1933 the decreases were general, averaging about 10 per cent, while in 1934 there were decreases in some trades in certain cities but no general downward tendency appeared. In some cases there were increases so that the average decrease was about 3 per cent. In 1935, increases occurred chiefly in Quebec and Ontario, some of them due to agreements which established minimum wages under provincial legislation as outlined in Appendix E. In 1936 the upward movement continued with, however, decreases in certain trades in a few localities. In 1937 there were increases in several of the localities and in 1938 increases became fairly general.

Metal Trades

In the metal trades the increase in wage rates from 1915 to 1918 was greater than in most of the other groups, there being a good demand for labour in the manufacture of munitions. During the industrial activity in 1919 and 1920 further increases were made, but in 1921 and 1922 considerable decreases occurred. In 1923 and 1924 some recovery was experienced, in 1925 there was practically no change, from 1926 to 1930 there were some slight changes upward, but during 1931 the changes were downward, while during 1932 and 1933 the decreases averaged 5 per cent and 3 per cent respectively. In 1934 there were comparatively few decreases, with some increases, so that the average was down less than one per cent. In 1935 wages recovered, being slightly higher than in 1934, and this slight recovery continued in 1936 and became substantial in 1937. In 1938, however, the advance was slight.

Printing Trades

In the printing trades up to 1920 increases were somewhat less than in most of the other industries but in 1921 when many of the three or five-year agreements between employers and the unions expired, rates were advanced and hours were reduced in many cases. Increases appeared each year thereafter down to 1931. During 1932 decreases of 10 per cent were general in the western provinces and were made in some cities in the east. In 1933 the decreases were general, averaging 5 per cent. In 1934 while there were further decreases, there were some increases, the average being down less than one per cent. In 1935, 1936, 1937 and 1938 there were a few increases.

Electric Street Railways

In electric railway service, rates had almost doubled by 1920, but declined slightly in 1921 and 1922, recovering somewhat in 1923 and very gradually each year thereafter until 1931 after which reductions occurred until 1934.

Since 1930, on many of these railways, with reduced traffic, operating costs were lowered to some extent by reducing hours per day, and therefore daily wages, instead of reducing hourly rates. In 1934 very few changes in wages were made so that the index number was practically unchanged. In 1935, 1936, 1937, and 1938 there were a few increases.

Steam Railways

In steam railway employment, wage increases were considerable in 1918, 1919 and 1920, but in 1921, decreases averaging about 12 per cent for all classes were made and in 1922 decreases for shop crafts, maintenance of way employees and for freight handlers, clerks, etc., were made, averaging about 10 per cent. In 1926, at the end of the year, wages of conductors, trainmen, brakemen, baggagemen, and yardmen were advanced about 6 per cent, that is, by half the amount of the reduction in 1921, and during 1927 similar increases were made in rates for other classes. In 1929, increases were secured by shop and maintenance of way employees and by certain classes of train crews on some lines. In 1931, while practically all classes were to a great extent on short time, changes in rates were not made until the end of the year when a 10 per cent deduction from each employee's pay was made for train, engine and telegraph service employees from December first. In the early months of 1932 the same deduction was applied to other classes.

In 1933, earnings of employees in engine, train and telegraph services were subjected to a deduction of 20 per cent from May to October, inclusive, and 15 per cent thereafter. The deduction for most of the other classes was increased to 15 per cent in December.

Toward the end of 1934 amendments to the agreements between the railway companies and the employees provided that the general deduction of 15 per cent would be changed to one of 12 per cent on January 1, 1935, and to 10 per cent on May 1, 1935. Early in 1937 an amendment to each agreement provided that the deduction would be as follows: February 1, 9 per cent; April 1, 8 per cent; June 1, 7 per cent; August 1, 6 per cent; October 1, 5 per cent; December 1, 4 per cent; February 1, 1938, 2 per cent; April 1, 1938, none.

Coal Mining

In coal mining the index number reached its peak in 1921, increases having been made in the closing weeks of 1920. In 1922 decreases were made in Nova Scotia and Vancouver Island and in 1923 and 1924 slight decreases occurred in the latter. A substantial decrease occurred in Alberta and southeastern British Columbia in 1924. In 1925 decreases occurred in the three principal districts, being especially steep in Alberta and southeastern British Columbia. Slight increases, however, were provided for a number of classes in some of the mines in Alberta toward the end of the year. In 1926, reductions were effected in Nova Scotia but wages in the other fields were practically unchanged. Slight increases were made in some mines in Alberta in 1928. In Nova Scotia in February, 1930, rates for labourers were changed by increases of 5 cents to 15 cents per day and certain other datal classes were slightly increased. During 1931 rates of wages were steady but the industry suffered greatly from short time, that is, collieries were operated less than six days per week to a great extent. In 1932 in Nova Scotia rates were reduced 10 per cent in March, except that a minimum of $3.25 per day was provided for in the principal mines. In the other districts rates were reduced only in a few of the smaller mines. In 1933, wages in the Drumheller district in Alberta were reduced more than 10 per cent. In Nova Scotia, rates were unchanged in the principal mines but there were reductions of about 15 per cent in certain mines of medium size. In 1934 partial restorations of these reductions were made in some Nova Scotia mines, while decreases occurred in New Brunswick. In 1935, increases of about 5 per cent were made in Nova Scotia and in Alberta in the Drumheller and Edmonton districts. In 1937 datal rates in several of the principal mines in Nova Scotia were increased by nearly 10 per cent. In 1938 the rates were increased 5 to 10 per cent in the various districts in Alberta and in the Crow's Nest Pass district in British Columbia. In the principal mines in Vancouver Island in British Columbia average increases of 7 per cent were made.

The index number for 1901 to 1934 does not include New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and the Princeton district in British Columbia. The inclusion of these figures for 1934, when weighted according to numbers of miners employed, made no change in the result.

Factory Labour

Factory labour had shown almost the greatest percentage increases up to 1920, both for common labour and for the various trades, but steep decreases appeared from 1921 to 1923 after which the trend was upward until 1931 when a considerable number of decreases occurred. In 1932 decreases in rates were numerous and steep in some cases. There was, however, a pronounced tendency to reduce hours per week or per day or both, frequently on a short time basis, with relatively small reductions in hourly rates. In some cases, where hours per day were reduced more than daily wages, the hourly rate became higher. In 1933, rates were again generally downward but less steeply. In 1934 there were numerous increases in nearly all of the manufacturing industries but comparatively few decreases so that the index number rose by nearly 3 per cent. In 1935 the upward movement continued. In Ontario and Quebec this was due to some extent to agreements establishing minimum rates in various localities and industries under provincial legislation. In 1936 wages were increased in many establishments in all manufacturing industries and in 1937 and 1938 the upward movement continued.

Logging and Sawmilling

In logging and sawmilling steep increases in wages appeared up to 1920, followed by particularly steep decreases in 1921, after which substantial increases occurred in 1923 and 1924, with a decrease in 1925 and slight increases each year thereafter until 1930 when more decreases than increases appeared. During 1931 decreases were general, and again in 1932, wage reductions of 20 per cent being quite common. In 1933, wages were still downward but there was a pronounced upward trend toward the end of the year for the ensuing season. In 1934, substantial increases in wages were general both in logging and in sawmills so that the index number rose by about 20 per cent. Provincial regulations as to wages in logging in New Brunswick and Quebec came into force that year. In 1935 the increases averaged 5 per cent. In 1936 wages were again upward, the increases averaging nearly 9 per cent. In 1937 the average increase was over 13 per cent and in 1938 was 5 per cent.

Nature and Scope of Report

The main object of these reports is to show the changes in wage rates and in hours of labour during the periods covered. The figures given in each report afford a continuous record for the years included, the data being from the same sources as far as possible. Whenever a new source of information becomes available, the figures for previous years are secured, if possible, and the record is revised accordingly.

Information is compiled from reports secured annually from representative employers and trade unions, and also from union agreements. The information is obtained in June for building trades, civic employees, steamships, trucking and cartage, longshoremen, logging and sawmilling, pulp and paper mills, and for iron and steel products, including automobiles, parts and accessories. For other trades and industries the information is secured chiefly in September. For the classes covered in June, later information is frequently received and used.

Figures are secured from practically all the large establishments in the various industries and from a representative number of the smaller establishments. These reports are supplemented by figures obtained by officers of the Department and by resident correspondents of the LABOUR GAZETTE in the principal industrial centres.

Wages in manufacturing are shown by samples numbered one, two, etc., each sample showing the predominant rate in a certain establishment; in some cases, for large establishments two or three samples are given; in other cases where the same rate is paid by a number of firms a sample may represent several such firms in order to avoid repetition. Additional samples of rates above or below the predominant rates have been included where an appreciable number of workers were receiving such rates; where it appears to be preferable a range of predominant rates is used. For common labour in factories, sample rates are given by localities for the principal manufacturing centres. The locality in each case is not given as it would in many instances make possible the identification of the particular establishment.

For the following industries wages are given in the form of samples as in the case of factory labour: steamships, grain elevators, electric current production and transmission, telephones, laundries, logging and sawmilling, and metal mining.

Figures for particular localities are given for building, metal, and printing trades, electric railways and civic employees in Tables I and II, and for trucking and cartage, and longshoremen in Table III, also for common labour in factories in Table IX.

The statistics as to building trades show the prevailing rates of wages and hours of labour for nine classes of labour for the years 1920, 1926, and for 1930 to 1938 inclusive, for the building season beginning in the spring of each year. During the year 1931, however, changes occurred later in the season more extensively than is usual, and the rates in effect at the end of the year were therefore obtained and included. For 1933 a similar survey was made again toward the end of the year in several cities. As in all previous years, changes in rates reported down to the end of the year, from the sources mentioned above, are included. In Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the rates include agreement rates made obligatory on all employers affected under provincial legislation as to collective agreements and industrial standards; in British Columbia they include minimum rates for the construction industry under the Male Minimum Wage Act, and in Manitoba under the Fair Wages Act. Such rates of wages and hours of labour are given in Appendix E.

On steam railways, wages of employees on the regular staffs are fixed according to agreements between the several railways and the employees, members of the organizations of railway employees, the principal railways having the same rates for nearly all the principal classes. The figures published are taken from these agreements.

In water transportation the organization of various classes of employees negotiate scales of wages, hours and working conditions with many of the steamship companies although agreements are not always signed; other operators tend to pay about the same rates.

In coal mining, the wages in the principal districts are arranged by agreements between the coal mining operators and the employees, in most cases represented by unions and in others by committees of employees. The figures published from 1920 to 1933 were taken from such agreements. The figures for average earnings of contract miners, however, were received from representative employers in each district. In some of the mines in these districts the wages of unorganized employees are somewhat lower than the rates in the agreements. For Report No. 18, and subsequent reports, statements as to wage rates and hours of labour have been requested from the operators of all the larger mines throughout Canada and the figures so secured have been compiled by provinces or districts. The resulting figures include those for many mines not operated under agreements as to wages and working conditions, and cover the mines in New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and the interior of British Columbia for which figures were not previously published.

In metal mining the rates of wages and hours of labour are shown as samples for mines in the various parts of Canada, secured from representative employers.

In logging, Table VII, the data each year is for the season beginning in the autumn and ending in the spring in Eastern Canada.

Data as to Hours

In earlier reports the hours of labour shown throughout were the standard or regular hours per week, per day, etc., and did not indicate the hours actually worked either overtime or on short time. During 1931 a number of establishments in many of the manufacturing industries reported operations on a short time basis. In the report for that year, No. 15, covering the years 1926, 1930 and 1931, standard or full-time weekly hours were shown as before, with full-time weekly or daily earnings where hourly wages were not used.

In Report No. 16, with figures for 1930, 1931 and 1932, in the tables on manufacturing industries, the hours of labour for these years were those reported by employers, whether short time or regular hours, and the wage rates were brought to an hourly basis, except in certain industries, clothing, bread, cake, biscuit, candy, brewing and paper box making for which regular hours were reported chiefly, employees being usually paid by the week. The same procedure has been followed in subsequent reports except that wages for boot and shoe manufacturing are given on a weekly basis with the hours shown as reported. In this industry, as in some instances in clothing manufacturing, the hours actually worked by individual piece workers are usually not reported and the hours shown are those on which the department or factory is operated.

Index Numbers of Wage Rates

In Report No. 1 tables of index numbers were given in order to show the general trend of the movement in rates of wages. The first set of index numbers was for the rates of wages from 1901 to 1920 in the thirteen selected cities. For each series of rates, that is, for each trade or occupation in each locality, index numbers were calculated both from the hourly rates and from the weekly rates, and these index numbers were averaged for all localities, by groups, thus indicating the relative changes in weekly rates and in hourly rates. The year 1913 was taken as the base period, that is the rate for 1913 in each case was taken as 100, so that the index numbers showed the percentage changes in rates from year to year prior to and since that date. An average was also made for all of the series in these tables, in order to indicate the general trend in wages in such trades as a whole. In making the average index numbers for the six groups the simple arithmetical averages were taken, no allowance being made for the importance of each trade or group by using a system of weighting. In Report No. 3 this table of index numbers for the thirteen cities was brought down to September, 1921.

In subsequent reports the index numbers of hourly rates from 1901 to 1921 have been reproduced, with figures since 1921 calculated by ascertaining the average increase or decrease per cent in the figures for each group each year from the figures for the preceding year and adjusting the group index number accordingly. The index numbers therefore show approximately the movement of wage rates in each group for the past year as compared with the movement in previous years and show current levels as compared with levels in 1913. In Report No. 3 index numbers of daily wages in coal mining were given, calculated in the same manner as the index numbers in Report No. 1. The index number for the coal mining group since 1921 has been calculated in the same manner as those for the other groups. The index numbers for metal trades, previously calculated from Section b in Table I, omitted for 1931 and 1932, were calculated from the average percentage changes in the samples for such trades in Table X for those years.

A table of index numbers of wages for factory trades, for common labour in factories, and for lumbering (logging and sawmilling) calculated from the sample rates published was also given for the period 1911 to 1920 in Report No. 1. These figures have been brought down to 1938 in the same manner as the other index numbers since 1921 were calculated.

The classes of labour for which rates were used for the calculation of index numbers for the period 1901 to 1938 are, in the main, skilled trades; and practically all of these classes, including the unskilled, are organized to a great extent in trade and labour unions. The index numbers for these six groups therefore show the trend of wage rates in a number of organized occupations whose members, except coal miners and steam railway employees, work chiefly in cities. They do not, however, indicate the changes in wages outside of industrial centres.

The index numbers calculated from sample rates of wages in factories show the trend of wages for labour in manufacturing industries in which there are many establishments in small centres as well as in cities. The figures for lumbering cover sawmilling in both large and small centres and logging in the principal districts.

Beginning with Report No. 19, in addition to the simple average for the six groups with figures from 1901 to 1937, weighted averages have been calculated for these six groups and also for all nine groups in those years for which figures are available. The index number for each group is weighted by the average number of wage-earners in the industry represented, as shown by the decennial or the annual industrial census of 1921 and of 1931, the average of the figures for these two dates being taken in each case.

The weights were as follows (in thousands): building trades 143; metal trades 131; printing trades 25; electric railways 18; steam railways 161; coal mining 28; common factory labour 110; miscellaneous factory trades 363; logging and sawmilling 77.

It will be observed that this weighting has most effect in modifying the effect on the general averages of the figures for coal mining and lumbering in which from time to time since 1920 the changes have been quite different from those in the other groups.

Weighting, within groups, although desirable, has not been done. In such groups by occupations or industries weighting makes comparatively little difference as rates of wages for the various classes of labour tend to rise and fall to the same extent even in different localities. In the three groups, Common Factory Labour, Miscellaneous Factory Trades, and Logging and Sawmilling, the index numbers, being calculated from samples, the averages are automatically weighted by the number of samples which vary according to the number of workers in the various occupations and industries.

* Rate and hours approved under Industrial Standards Act, Nova Scotia, 1936.

 Beginning in 1934 agreements approved by Order in Council under the Collective Labour Agreements Extension Act, Quebec, 1934, established minimum rates of wages for various trades in cities, towns and other defined jurisdictional territory throughout the province. On May 1, 1937, the Collective Labour Agreements Extension Act, Quebec, 1934, was replaced by the Act entitled an Act Respecting Workmen's Wages. On March 18, 1938, the Act respecting Workmen's Wages was replaced by an Act entitled The Collective Labour Agreements' Act. In 1935, 1936, 1937, and 1938 the minimum rate in each range is that approved under these Acts.
